EXTRA MRS. JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER DEAD

U. S. INSISTS GERMAN SHIP INTERN

TWO MEN HELD FOR MURDER WHEN UNKNOWN YOUNG WOMAN IS FOUND DYING IN THE STREET

An attractive, well dressed young woman, whose first name is given as "Esther," died at the Cambridge Hospital just before noon today under circumstances which led to the immediate arrest in Cambridge of two men on charges of murder in the first degree.

The men under arrest are:

Bernard Le Hand, thirty-one years old, of No. 101 Orchard street, Somerville, single and employed as a stenographer. The Cambridge police understand that he works in the Standard Oil Company's offices in Boston.

Joseph St. Pierre, thirty years old, of No. 109 Walden street, North Cambridge, proprietor of the Russell Pharmacy, corner Massachusetts avenue and Russell street, North Cambridge. He has a wife and two children.

BELIEVE DRUG CAUSED HER DEATH.

The police believe the girl died from the effects of a drug. She was brought to the hospital from Milton street, North Cambridge, soon after 3 o'clock this morning in a police ambulance which was called to Milton street by Dr. E. J. O'Rourke.

The girl was unconscious on the sidewalk on Milton street. The Cambridge police said that Le Hand, who had summoned Dr. O'Rourke, told them he came across the girl leaning against a Milton street fence as he was on his way to his own home on Orchard street.

Chief Inspector Patrick J. Hurley of the Cambridge police said that later LeHand and St. Pierre admitted they met "Esther" and "Alice" in a Boston cafe and brought them out to St. Pierre's drugstore some time after midnight.

SAY SHE TOOK HEROIN.

The prisoners claimed that while they were in the drugstore "Esther" helped herself to some heroin, thus explaining her unconsciousness and subsequent death.

The police are looking for "Alice." Inspectors from the Cambridge department came to Boston and asked the help of the Boston police in locating the other girl, whose explanation of the tragedy is much wanted on the Cambridge end.

An autopsy has been ordered on

RUSSIAN GENERAL COMMITS SUICIDE

BERLIN, March 12 (by wireless).—Baron Sievers, the general who commanded the Tenth Russian army when it was destroyed by the German forces, committed suicide as a result of his rout in the Mazurian Lake region, according to a private Petrograd dispatch received today, says the Frankfurter Zeitung.

British Ship Halted by British Cruiser

NEW YORK, March 12.—The British steamship King was held up by a British cruiser off the Highlands today, but was permitted to proceed to Newport News after showing her papers.

Cabinet Member's Son Dies at Front

BERLIN, March 12.—A son of Dr. von Schorlemer, Prussian Minister of Agriculture, has been killed on the firing line, it was announced today.

MRS. JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, WHO IS DEAD AT POCANTICO HILLS

DEATH TAKES THE WIFE OF ROCKEFELLER

NEW YORK, March 12.—Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, wife of the richest man in the world, is dead. She passed away at 10:30 a. m. today at the Rockefeller home at Pocantico Hills after an illness of several months.

Mrs. Rockefeller had been in poor health for many years. She was seventy-five years old last September.

Neither Mr. Rockefeller nor his son, John D. Jr., was at Pocantico Hills when Mrs. Rockefeller passed away. Both are at Ormonde, Fla.

News of Mrs. Rockefellers' death was kept secret for a short time in fear of the effect it would have on the stock market because of its influence upon the health of her husband through grief.

DAUGHTER IN EUROPE.

Rumors of the death of Mrs. Rockefeller were circulated here during the forenoon, however, and at 11 o'clock they were confirmed at the Standard Oil Company offices. This statement was issued:

"The report that Mrs. Rockefeller, Sr., is dead is true, but we have no information to give at present."

Mrs. Rockefeller's only daughter, Mrs. Harold F. McCormick of Chicago, is now in Switzerland. At the time Mrs. McCormick went abroad there was no suspicion that Mrs. Rockefeller's illness would terminate fatally.

Mrs. Rockefeller before her marriage was Miss Laura Spellman of Cleveland, O. She and Mr. Rockefeller were married in Cleveland in September, 1864. They had two children, John Davison Rockefeller, Jr., and Edith Rockefeller, who was married to Mr. McCormick in 1895.

WAS DEEPLY RELIGIOUS.

The definite cause of Mrs. Rockefeller's death was pernicious anaemia, although her health had been failing for a long while. Mrs. Rockefeller loved a quiet home life and was but little known to the outside world.

She had no liking for society beyond the little circle in which she lived, although her husband's vast wealth could have made her te foremost social leader of America had she desired to be that. Mrs. Rockefeller was deeply religious and gave liberally to charity, although she refused to allow her benefactions to be advertised.

Mr. Rockefeller and son have already started for New York from Florida. It was announced here that they would board a special train at Jacksonville and reach New York within thirty-six hours.

Steal $4,000 Gems, Shoot a Pursuer

NEW YORK, March 12.—One man hurled a brick through the store window of George T. Ryan in Eighth avenue near Forty-fifth street and snatched up $4,000 worth of jewelry, while his confederate kept pursuers at bay with a revolver, shooting one of them in the arm. Two men were arrested, but they denied all knowledge of the robbery.

Neuve Chapellle in Hands of British

LONDON, March 12.—The capture of Neuve Chapelle by British troops on March 10 was officially announced by the government press bureau today. Seven hundred and fifty Germans were captured when the town was taken.

COMMANDER THIERICHENS of the German converted cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich.

TODAY'S MARKET SUMMARY.

Stocks were in more demand when markets opened, especially in New York. There was considerable covering there within fifteen minutes, and in a number of instances there were good advances. But the movement did not extend to all standard issues. Maxwell Motor rose 1¼ to 76, and the gain in Goodrich Rubber was 1¾. Pressed Steel Car rose ¾ to 27¾.

In Boston at the opening American Zinc was off ⅛ at 26⅝, Boston & Maine was unchanged at 33, Alaska Gold was up ⅜ at 31⅜, United Fruit was unchanged at 119¼.

Changes in New York at the start included Amalgamated up ⅛ at 55¾, Union Pacific off ⅛ at 150¾, New Haven up ½ at 52⅝, Reading up ⅛ at 145¾, Steel up ⅛ at 45¼, and Leather unchanged at 33⅝.

Most Americans were fractionally lower in London at the opening and there was no improvement in prices for them there up to noon. The Bank of France reports a gain of nearly $300,000 in gold for the week.

The New York cotton market opened with prices from 3 to 6 points lower. Liquidation in Liverpool was reflected by the decline. Trading was quiet.

WHAT BECOMES OF THE HOLES IN OUR POSTAGE STAMPS?

It sounds like a silly question, but there are some exceedingly interesting facts in the answer to it as given in this article.

TREASURY OFFICIAL DECLARES CRUISER EITEL MUST REMAIN DESPITE CAPTAIN'S STATEMENT

WASHINGTON, March 12.—"There is no doubt whatsoever that the Prinz Eitel Friedrich will be interned," said Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Peters, this afternoon, after a conference with President Wilson.

The inference gained from this statement was that President Wilson is determined that the German raider shall be interned, notwithstanding a statement accredited to the commander of the German ship earlier in the day, to the effect that he would put to sea after necessary repairs had been made.

That the sinking of the American ship William P. Frye by the German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich was justified, is the assertion made by Commander Thierichens of the Kaiser's warship in a sworn statement presented to Collector of the Port Norman R. Hamilton, at Newport News and forwarded to Washington.

The communication of the Eitel's commander, defending his action in sinking the Frye was in German and its text was not made public, but it is understood that the German commander takes the stand that he acted within the limits of international law because the Frye carried yellow maize, which is at least conditional contraband when consigned to the port of a belligerent nation.

According to Commander Thierichens, the nature of the Frye's cargo made her legal prey for the Prinz Eitel. It is said that this opinion of the naval officer is indorsed by the German Embassy.

While the commander's defence was on the way to Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Peters, repair work on the Prinz Eitel was being pushed in the drydock of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company.

FEAR THE KARLSRUHE HAS BEEN SUNK.

Officers of the Prinz Eitel admitted today for the first time that they feared the cruiser Karlsruhe had been sunk in West Indian waters. The Prinz Eitel has heard nothing from the Karlsruhe in many months, and because of the absence of news the officers think she met the doom which the Prinz Eitel escaped during her long voyage.

Commander Thierichens is understood to have declared, in a communication relating to repairs necessary on the Prinz Eitel, that the cruiser could be made ready for sea in a week.

If the Prinz Eitel should put to sea, she would doubtless depend chiefly upon speed, as she is unarmored.

Thin People Can Increase Weight

Thin men and women who would like to increase their weight with 10 or 15 pounds of healthy "Way there" fat should try selling a little Sargol with their meals for a while and note results. Here is a good tonic worth trying. First weigh yourself and measure yourself. Then take Sargol—one tablet with every meal—for two weeks. Then weigh and measure again. It isn't a question of how you look or feel or what your friends say and think. The scales and the tape measure will tell their own story, and those are the only means by which even a single pound in the first fourteen days by following this simple direction. And best of all, the new flesh stays put.

Sargol does not of itself make fat, but mixes with your food, it turns the fats, sugars and starches of what you have eaten into ripe fat producing nourishment for the tissues and blood—prepares it in an easily assimilated form which the blood can readily accept. All this nourishment now passes from your body as waste. But Sargol stops the waste and does it quickly and surely. Many prominent centers of the very same meals you are eating now develop pounds and pounds of healthy flesh, brighten your skin and bring Sargol is pleasant, efficient and inexpensive. All leading druggists in Boston and vicinity sell it in large-size forty tablets to a package—on a guarantee of weight increase or money back.

COMMANDER OF GERMAN CRUISER DECLARES HE WILL NOT INTERN

Collector Hamilton at Newport News gave the first intimation that the Prinz Eitel would not be interned. He said: "Commander Thierichens told me it was his intention to repair and proceed; that it was not his intention to intern."

When told that British warships were so close to the Virginia capes that the coast guard cutter Onondaga was sent out to see that they did not violate neutrality laws, Captain Thierichens declared he had been taking chances for seven months and expected to do so again.

"Six of them followed us in here," he said, "and two should not have much trouble getting rid of five."

The Eitel Friedrich is in drydock and the work of making repairs will begin at once.

The Newport News immigration authorities were confronted by a puzzle today in the hundred or more third-class passengers taken from the French liner Floride by the Prinz Eitel before the liner was sunk. Many of these persons have been refused admission because of their failure to meet financial or physical requirements.

The captain of the Floride declares that these passengers were brought in by the Prinz Eitel and it is therefore "up to" the German commander to see they are provided for.

The French Consul at Norfolk, A. C. Bailey, has been asked to look into the matter and devise means to send the detained passengers on to Buenos Ayres, their destination.

These "undesirable" passengers are still aboard the Prinz Eitel, though she is in dry dock.

The baggage of the first cabin passengers was taken ashore today and they may leave Newport News at any time they wish.

CAPTAIN OF THE FRYE PREPARES TO BACK U. S. GOVERNMENT CASE

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Captain H. H. Kiehne of the William P. Frye, the American ship which was sunk by the German converted cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich, is expected to confer with State and Treasury officials in Washington Saturday, giving a personal statement of the circumstances surrounding the sinking of his ship.

He has been asked to keep the members of his crew together so that corroborative data for diplomatic correspondence may be gained from them.

Captain Kiehne and crew are to undergo direct examination by Assistant Secretary Peters, in charge of the Treasury Department end of the case. Chief interest here turned to the international questions involved in the sinking of the Frye. It was stated that the United States would make a strong demand for reparation and other amends for the sinking of the wheat ship unless the German government voluntarily takes such action.

Officials agreed that the case must be pressed vigorously, but it was generally believed that this government could not go so far as to proceed against the officers and crew of the Prinz Eitel as pirates. It was pointed out by lawyers in the State Department that there would be little ground for such a charge, as the Prinz Eitel properly may be considered as a regularly commissioned vessel of the German government and as such is entitled to treatment as a belligerent during the war.

EXPECT GERMANY TO SETTLE.

The State Department is to keep the two questions distinct:

1.—The request of Commander Thierichens for permission to repair the Prinz Eitel at Newport News.

2.—The alleged unwarranted blowing up of the Frye by the Prinz Eitel.

There is a general belief among officials close to the administration here that Germany will admit the error of her naval commander in sinking the Frye, as soon as she is apprised of the facts.

She would then make the usual reparation, paying damages. The court-martialing of the German officer might follow.

About seventy-five third-class passengers of the French liner Floride, one of the cruiser's victims, are still held on board the warship today. They have been refused admission by the immigration officials on the ground of ineligibility.

Consuls of these passengers are expected today to arrange for their transportation to Ellis Island, New York, and for their deportation.

When the crew of the Frye had been landed they were taken to the customhouse, where they made sworn statements of circumstances attending the sinking of the ship January 28 last, off the river Plate. Collector Hamilton took the statements and also prepared a joint summary of conditions, which the members of the crew signed, to be forwarded to Washington today. They were not made public.

"There was no conflict of testimony by the members of the crew as to the circumstances surrounding the destruction of the Frye," said Mr. Hamilton today. "All were in line with the details given by Captain Kiehne, master of the ship, who said that his ship was blown up with her cargo of wheat for Queenstown after the crew had been warned to board the German cruiser.

CRUISER'S CAPTAIN SAYS HE HELD FRYE CARGO CONTRABAND

NEWPORT NEWS, March 12.—Commander Thierichens of the German converted cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich, now in dry dock, has submitted two statements to Collector of Customs Hamilton of this port. It is frankly stated to American government officials he sank the Maine ship Frye because he regarded her cargo as contraband of war.

As to the condition of the cruiser's engines and boilers, it was reported that whereas she had been steaming eighteen knots an hour at the beginning of her historic commerce raiding career, she dared make scarcely twelve when she reached American waters early Wednesday morning.

After the ship went into dry dock she discharged the names of the French and Russian ships she had sunk. The French crews left for New York. A few Russians went with them. The British crews plan to return to England on British ships laden with horses from this port.

Commander Thierichens assured officials here that neither the officers or men of the Eitel Friedrich would set foot on American soil except on official business.

EXAMINE CRUISER.

To the request of the Washington government that he land here the crews of captured and sunken vessels and such passengers as could comply with immigration regulations, the German commander assented.

YOU OWE A DEBT TO BELGIUM

"If, after this, one Belgian goes without a full meal, while thousands of loafers are living in luxury from Canterbury to San Francisco and from Biarritz to Venice, there is really nothing more to be said for mankind. A contribution to the fund is the payment of a debt, and not a charity of charity. I therefore make not an appeal but a claim on Belgium's behalf which she is too gracious to make for herself." — George Bernard Shaw.

"At the risk of being considered importunate I cannot refrain from telling you that more MUCH MORE is needed, and if New England's hand of mercy is stayed we are faced with the calamity of a famine under conditions entailing misery such as the world has never known," — HERBERT CLARK HOOVER, Chairman Belgian Commission for Relief.

GERMANY JUSTIFIABLE IF FRYE'S CARGO WAS FOR ENEMY, IS OFFICIAL'S VIEW

WASHINGTON, March 12.—From an authoritative source in the State Department the following view of the Prinz Eitel Friedrich was obtained:

"The basic question in this whole case turns on the issue whether or not the cargo of wheat on the American vessel Frye was absolute contraband of war.

"If Germany can prove that the cargo was intended for enemy destination, then she had a right not only to destroy the cargo, but the vessel itself.

"Germany holds that the Declaration of London, that wheat is conditional contraband, and that to make it absolute contraband, all that is necessary is to show that it had an enemy destination, or sustain the presumption that the cargo might reasonably be expected to get into the hands of the British government.

"The facts as developed so far show that the vessel was bound from an American port to the British port of Queenstown.

"Queenstown is, without any doubt, so far as Germany is concerned, 'enemy destination.'

"The enemy destination is provable by the ship's papers, and we understand that the papers are in existence, and that they show where the grain was going. It was then for the captain of the Eitel Frederich to determine, that is in his own opinion, there was good ground for belief that the cargo might eventually be used for the British army.

"It is certain that he did determine that it was to be so used, and so far as he was concerned that made the cargo absolute contraband.

"Whether he was right or wrong is a question for the State Department and Germany to determine hereafter.

"Therefore, the disposition of this matter, as I have said, between the two governments, will depend upon the correctness and justification of the view taken by the commander of the Prinz Eitel Frederich. I do not anticipate that the question will become acute in the sense that it will become a case of serious or dangerous international friction."

CAPTAIN KIEHNE'S WIFE TELLS HOW HUSBAND'S SHIP WAS SUNK AT SEA

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., March 12.—Carrying ashore a canary bird, which was practically all she rescued from her husband's ship before it was sunk by the Prinz Eitel Friedrich, Mrs. Henry Kiehne, wife of the captain of the American ship Frye, landed from the German raider. She described her experience thus:

We had a delightful time out from Seattle, through the straits and up the west coast until we encountered the Eitel Friedrich on January 27. That was a Wednesday, as I recall it. My husband, the two children and myself were forward. We had just passed through a slight squall.

It was my fourth trip with Henry. James, my six-year-old boy, was on his first voyage, and Herman, our ten-year-old son, was on his third cruise. It was about 10 o'clock in the morning when the children noticed the Eitel Friedrich low down about ten miles ahead. He said to me, "That's a warship of some kind. I guess we had better be prepared for a hail."

For an hour we watched the ship approach, and as she drew near my husband saw she was a German vessel. She didn't fire any shot at us, but, as my husband had anticipated, she signalled us that an officer would come aboard and presently a small boat put off from her side accompanied by a crew.

TOLD SHIP WAS AMERICAN.

When the officer came aboard with the sailors, all of whom were armed, my husband met him at the gangway and explained that he is an American, and that his ship was an American. The officer bowed and asked what our cargo was.

"Wheat," said my husband.

"Where bound?" asked the officer.

"Queenstown for orders," replied my husband.

About half an hour later the officer departed, leaving behind his crew. I asked my husband what was to be done and he shook his head sadly.

"They say the cargo is contraband and that it must be put overboard," he said.

"Can you protest?" I asked.

He said he had protested, but nothing could be done. Then in a little while more sailors came aboard and they began to throw the cargo overboard. While this was going on we sighted another ship, after which the Eitel Friedrich went, leaving the crew at work on our ship putting the cargo overboard.

SAW OTHER SHIP BLOWN UP.

Night came on as the crew of the German ship continued to heave our cargo overboard. Then suddenly I saw a glare of light, which was followed a few minutes later by a dull rumble across the water.

"They have blown the Frenchman up," I heard one o the crew say.

This was about 10 o'clock. They worked on the cargo until about 2 o'clock in the morning. It was slow work. They had only got out about fifty tons of the wheat, and then came a signal from the Eitel Friedrich, which had returned from blowing up the French ship and was standing by about a mile away.

My husband hurried toward me and told me to go below and get my things.

"What's the matter?" I asked.

"We are going on board the German cruiser," he replied.

I got together a few things. There was not much time. We were quickly taken to the Eitel Friedrich. I learned by listening closely that they were going to blow up the Frye. They decided it would take too long to throw the cargo overboard and they were afraid to stand by too long for there were rumors of British warships nearby. When I awakened it was about 7 o'clock Thursday morning, January 28. I went on deck and saw a German crew in a small boat pulling toward the Frye, which had been abandoned and was floating idly on the sea. They boarded her and went below, reappearing a few minutes later and quickly returning to the Eitel Friedrich.

Ten minutes later I saw a burst of flame and smoke come from the waist of the ship, followed by a loud explosion. They had blown up my husband's splendid ship. Almost immediately afterward we got under way and proceeded north, steering the same zigzagging course that the ship had taken when we had seen her first.

LONDON SAYS U. S. NOW MUST MEET GERMAN "PIRATICAL PRACTICES"

LONDON, March 12.—Today's newspapers devote several columns to the adventures of the German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich, and the complications that have arisen as the result of her arrival at a United States port after sinking an American vessel. Intense interest is displayed here in the action that President Wilson will take.

"The Americans have now had brought home to them in practical fashion, what Germany's piratical practices may mean to neutrals," says the Evening Standard. "The commander of the armed liner has before him a task that will need all his astuteness if he is to come out with clean hands as far as America is concerned."

The Pall Mall Gazette, after commenting in a similar strain, says: "The unction with which Germany pleads to the United States on the subject of free food is delightfully undermined by the exploit of the Eitel Friedrich in sinking a Seattle wheat ship. The sequel to this affair will command closest attention."

American Legion Names Officers

NEW YORK, March 12.—The American Legion, Inc., which is organizing a reserve for immediate call in case this country is threatened with war, has elected these officers: President, E. Rev. William A. Dacey is transferred from St. Monica's, South Boston, to the Cathedral of the Holy Cross.

Rev. Thomas J. O'Neil, from the Sacred Heart Church, Middleboro, to St. Monica's, South Boston.

Rev. Patrick A. Sharkey, from St. Mary's Church, Ayer, to the Sacred Heart Parish, Middleboro.

MYSTERY IN GIRL FOUND IN STUPOR

the dead girl, to ascertain the exact cause of death if possible.

Meanwhile the police are trying to learn "Esther's" last name and her address. They have given out detailed description of the girl and her clothing to help establishing her identity.

The case was mysterious from the start, particularly on account of the first story which, the police say, was told by LeHand.

The first the police knew was when North Cambridge police station, which is next door to the Russell Pharmacy, was notified by Dr. E. J. Rourke that a girl was unconscious on Milton street, and that the station ambulance should be sent to take her to a hospital. This was shortly after 2 a. m.

The ambulance was sent. The driver and other men on the vehicle found a girl unconscious on the sidewalk of Milton street, which is a short thoroughfare running from 2161 Massachusetts avenue to the Somerville line.

TRY PULMOTOR IN VAIN.

LeHand was there, the police say, with the explanation that, on his way home he came across this girl, leaning unconscious against a fence, that she collapsed to the walk when he touched her and that he telephoned Dr. O'Rourke from the Russell pharmacy.

The girl was taken to the Cambridge Hospital, where she died at 11:45 this forenoon without recovering consciousness. A pulmotor was tried as a last resort, but in vain.

Meanwhile, Chief Inspector Hurley, to whom the North Cambridge police had reported the case, took personal charge of the investigation. He had several men out, covering the Milton street neighborhood and questioning people.

The hospital physicians reported an absence of any bruises or marks on the girl, thus discounting a theory of attack or hold-up.

The statement by Le Hand that, when he came to the girl, she was leaning against the fence, although unconscious, caused the police much thought.

MEN CLOSELY QUESTIONED.

Just when suspicion was attached to Le Hand Chief Inspector Hurley does not say. But before the middle of the morning both Le Hand and Joseph St. Pierre, the druggist, were at Cambridge police headquarters in Central square.

They were closely questioned and, while no charge was made against them at that time, they were under detention. The police received an unfavorable report from the hospital. Finally word came of the girl's death, and the formal arrests of LeHand and St. Pierre followed without delay.

DESCRIPTION OF "ESTHER," THE GIRL WHO HAS DIED

The police description of the young woman found unconscious in Cambridge and who died later, is as follows:

Age—About twenty-five.
Height—Five feet four inches.
Weight—140 pounds.
Hair—Light and plentiful.
Complexion—Blonde.
Eyes—Blue.
Contour of face—Full.
Features—Regular and comely.
Coat—Purple cloth, velvet collar, white silk lining.
Vest of coat—White silk, trimmed with fitch fur.
Skirt—Purple cloth.
Hat—Black straw, silk crown, trimmed with green feathered pompom.
Muff—Fitch fur.
Shoes—High, black, buttoned, size 4½.

SAYS CABOT HAD A GOOD MEMORY

George E. Cabot, nephew of the late Louis Cabot, resumed his testimony today before Judge Hardy and a jury in the Superior Court in the Cabot will case.

He is an executor of the $2,000,000 will which is being contested by Mrs. Mary Briggs, daughter of the testator.

Letters between the witness and Louis Cabot in 1912 concerning Mr. Cabot's Cotuit property were read. One letter read by Attorney Choate was addressed to the witness and concerned the family genealogical tree.

Q.—How was Louis Cabot's health in the Autumn of 1911? A.—He appeared to be in very good health.

Q.—What did you observe about his physical appearance? A.—He was anxious to play golf with me and he seemed very cheerful. He would tell stories. He seemed to be a most agreeable companion. I was very glad to be with him.

Q.—How did his health compare with previous years? A.—He seemed less worried and more easy-going.

Q.—Did you notice any signs that would indicate a mental weakness? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Any loss of memory or lack of intelligence? A.—No, sir.

Q.—In all the time you knew him did you notice any constitutional infirmity? A.—None whatever.

Q.—What did you observe as regards his memory and intelligence? A.—He often reminded me of conversations that had escaped my own memory. He talked of golf matches in which he had played and described the strokes he had used at different holes. He also discussed books an political events.

Q.—What was Mr. Cabot's attitude toward Woodward? A.—It was that of any employer toward his employe. He insisted that his orders be carried out. Woodward waited on Mr. Cabot especially. He would serve him special dishes and attend him at his breakfast and other meals. Whenever Mr. Cabot went out Woodward would have his shoes ready. He would warm them by the fire.

Charge Prisoner Is Slayer of Priest

NEW BRITAIN, Ct., March 12.—The local police feel certain that they will obtain custody of Bernard Montvid, who, with Peter Krakas is held in Wilmington as an accomplice of Krakas in the murder of Policeman Francis Z. Tierney of that city. Montvid and Krakas are wanted here in connection with the murder of Rev. Father Joseph Zebris and his housekeeper, Miss Iva E. Gilmanaitis, early in February. It is likely that Krakas will be held in Wilmington, but the police expect that Montvid will be brought here to answer to a charge of murder of the priest. It is expected that it will take about two weeks to discharge the formalities which are expected to result in the surrender of Montvid to the Connecticut authorities.

Announce Change in Car Line Route

Commencing today all Grove Hall and Meeting House Hill-Harrison Avenue Extension cars will be operated on a temporary route on Washington street to and from the corner of Boylston street instead of upon Harrison avenue extension, on account of work on the sewer at the corner of Beach street and Harrison avenue. As soon as the work upon the sewer will permit these cars will be restored to their present route.

DRY GOODS FIRM IN BANKRUPTCY

Schedules in bankruptcy of the Higgin-Frase Company, dry goods dealers of Fall River, were filed today with the clerk of the United States District Court. Their liabilities are $102,803, nearly all unsecured. The assets are $119,304. At a meeting of the creditors at New Bedford, last week, Herbert A. Whitney of Boston was appointed trustee with a bond of $20,000.

Year for Assault on Brother-in-Law

Peter McIsaac of No. 19 Preble street, South Boston, was sentenced to one year in the House of Correction by Associate Justice Day in the South Boston District Court today. McIsaac was charged with assault and battery on his brother-in-law, Patrick McMahon. New Year's Eve, when McIsaac insisted that McMahon take a drink from a bottle of whiskey. The evidence showed that the men became involved in a fight in which McMahon lost the sight of his left eye.

U. S. Holds Ship with Arms for Carranza

KEY WEST, Fla., March 12.—Orders were received here today from Washington to hold until further notice the steamer Honduras, which had put into Key West for ports. The vessel carries arms and ammunition consigned to General Carranza.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get At the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

If you have a bad taste in your mouth, tongue coated, appetite poor, lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, troubled with undigested food, you should take Olive Tablets. The substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief, so you can eat what you like. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

Three Misses

Correctly Attired in

New Spring Suits

These were sketched in our Misses' store direct from the suits themselves. We could fill a newspaper page with styles just as new and smart, but it is not in style alone that we excel. There are other things that cannot be shown in sketches such as Magrane Houston materials and tailoring which make all good styles better.

Sketched at Left Is One of Many New Styles in

Misses' Spring Suits at $25.00

The fabric used is gabardine, so much talked about in the style predictions for Spring, with a choice of navy and Copenhagen blue and sand. Here is a coat with the new empire lines, flared at bottom, very desirable for the youthful figure, revers of contrasting silks, circular flared skirt with a junior suspender effect. Sizes 14, 16 and 18 years..... $25.00

OTHER NEW SUITS AT $25.00 include Poplins, and Black and White Checks. Some are belted and others are straight tailored.

Misses' Spring Suits at $19.75

Here is a fine quality of poplin, in the four very best colors, navy and Copenhagen blue, sand and green. The coat is both plaited and belted, and the trimmings are confined to self-covered buttons and silk ornaments on collar. The skirt is a circular flared model of the newest type..... $19.75

THE OTHER MODELS AT $19.75 are all different from one another and not less distinctive than that illustrated.

Sketched in the Centre Is One of Many New Styles in

Misses' Spring Suits at $16.50

A better grade of poplin than you would naturally expect at this price. The colors are navy and Copenhagen, blue, sand and brown. All the styles of a high priced suit; plaited back, half belted, and dashing military front. The new circular skirt is especially appropriate with this suit..... $16.50

SEVERAL OTHER MODELS AT $16.50 comprise Norfolks in black and white checks and serges, dressier models in poplins and gabardines.

Showing How Inexpensive it is to keep girls looking neat and attractive in the home and schoolroom—as pointed out by the three pen sketches here and the three little stories that go with them.

FOURTEEN-YEAR-OLD BOY HELD AS SLAYER OF SISTER, AGED NINE

William Rodman Burbine, the fourteen-year-old son of Ambrose Burbine, will be arraigned in the juvenile session of the Malden court today, charged with the murder of his sister, Mary Florence, nine, in a room on the second floor of their home in Center street, Wakefield.

The boy, called "Rodman" by his playmates, has stoutly denied the shooting, claiming he slammed the door when his sister refused to go outdoors to play, and that the jar dislodged from a hook on the wall a loaded shotgun, which was thus discharged and killed the little girl.

The story, told in the most matter-of-fact manner, is opposed, however, by the story of Florence Halloran, Mary's playmate, who was in the room when the shooting occurred. Florence says the boy took down the gun, aimed it at the window near which Mary was standing, and pulled the trigger, intending to frighten their playmates in the yard.

Florence Halloran, the boy's accuser, of No. 372 Main street, in her version of the tragedy said:

"After school we went up to the second floor of Mary's house to play. The others went home to supper, afterward. When the other girls were in the yard, they kept calling to me to come out. Mary did not want me to go. Then Rodman came running up stairs to see why.

"He asked us what was the matter. Mary told him the other girls wanted me to go out, and that she did not want me to. Then he said, 'Well, if she doesn't want to go, we'll scare them away.'

"Then he went to a closet, took down a gun and pointed it at the window. When he pulled the trigger the gun did not go off. So he said, 'We will try another.' And he took out another gun. Mary had been hanging a piece of cloth over the window. The cloth fell, and she looked out to see what the other girls were doing. Just then Rodman aimed toward the window and fired.

"There was an awful noise, and lots of smoke. I saw Mary fall. I ran out of the room. Rodman followed me. We met Rodman's father on the first floor. I heard Rodman say, 'I shot Mary.' Then I ran home."

The boy was arrested and spent the night in a cell in the police station. The police found the double-barrelled shotgun with which the girl was killed in the room, but broken in two at the butt. Albert, twenty-two, the older brother, declared that he had wrecked it in his frenzy after the shooting. While he was telling this story to the police he took down the other gun, single barrelled, and smashed that also.

The police believe that if the boy did shoot it was not with any intention of hitting anyone, and that the sister must have unexpectedly got in line with the gun and the window toward which the the boy must have been aiming. The charge against the boy is technical, and only to permit the police to hold him for a complete investigation.

KENNEBEC IS ICE FREE; EARLIEST IN 130-YEAR RECORD

RICHMOND, Me., March 12. The ice left the Kennebec River late yesterday afternoon, the earliest in 130 years, according to records in the possession of C. E. Tallman. In 1871 and 1902 the ice left the river March 12.

Lime Treatment in Tuberculosis

In the May 25, 1912, issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association appeared this statement concerning calcium (lime) medication in the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis (consumption):

"Under the systematic, continued and persistent regime of calcium assimilation, Van Gieson has seen a number of his patients improve, undergo an exudation or partial consolidation in the lung, which then resolving would appear to contribute to the walling off and closing of the lesions. Hand in hand with this course of events, the sputum clears up of tubercle bacilli, which finally disappear, and the patients are discharged with healed pulmonary tuberculosis."

Ethical medical journals seldom speak so positively about a remedial agent, yet this testimony coincides with that from many consumptives who have secured like results through the use of Eckman's Alterative.

Since calcium is a constituent of this remedy for pulmonary tuberculosis and allied throat and bronchial affections, its healing power may to some measure be attributed to the manner in which this element is so combined with other ingredients as to be easily assimilated by the average person and it does not irritate the stomach.

Eckman's Alterative contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, so it is safe to use. If your druggist is out of it, ask him to order, or send direct to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia.

New Spring Suits

Worth $18.00 for

$10.00

2167 brand new, snappy, up-to-date Spring suits that have just left the workrooms of one of the best manufacturers in New York on sale for less than their regular wholesale price. It's one of the best purchases we have ever made. There's not a garment in the lot that should be sold for less than $18.00. They're the nobbiest suits we have ever seen. Young men's suits with patch pockets and all the frills that the new fashions have brought forth as well as conservative models for men who wish to dress in a quieter manner. We can't speak too enthusiastically about this wonderful purchase of these splendidly made garments which we will sell at almost half the price, just as the season is opening two weeks before Easter.

These suits are better in fit—workmanship—and style than many suits advertised as "custom made" at much higher prices.

The Fabrics: Splendid all-wool serges of the very finest quality, strictly pure worsteds, all wool cheviots and rich fancy Scotch overplaids, all cold water shrunk garments, splendidly tailored.

The Patterns: The new Tartan checks—fancy overplaids—all the new distinctive stripes—in the richest color effects that the weavers have produced for this coming Spring.

Your Favorite Perfume

¶ "The Perfume of the Lady in Black" is the title of a popular mystery story, the plot of which revolves around the rare personality of a woman whose individuality is accentuated by her fitting use of a characteristic perfume.

¶ A whiff of perfume caught in a passing crowd invariably bespeaks the woman of taste. Nine times out of ten the individuality thus expressed induced you to "look twice." And the tiny bit of fragrance caught remains with you many minutes as a pleasing remembrance.

¶ This individuality in perfume is just as important, just as necessary to women as charming gowns, Parisian hats, well-fitting gloves and neat, trim shoes.

¶ The Liggett Drug Stores carry all the popular imported and domestic makes and many individual odors that can not be found in other stores.

GERMANS DEFEAT RUSSIANS IN NEW BATTLE IN POLAND

BERLIN (by wireless), March 12.—Another efeat of the Russian forces in Poland is announced in today's official report from the German general staff. It states that the Russians retreated hurriedly north of Augustowo to avoid complete defeat.

The Germans took more than 4,000 prisoners, three guns and ten machine guns. Among the prisoners are the commanders of two regiments.

The capture of more than 3,200 Russians in the region of Prasnysz is also announced in the official report. It admits that the British have captured the town of Neuve Chapelle, and tells also of the repulse of hostile warships that bombarded Westende, Belgium.

The general staff's report follows:

"Western theatre—Two of the enemy's warships, accompanied by several torpedo boats, fired more than seventy shots at the Westende Bath yesterday without doing any damage. When the German batteries began to reply the squadron retreated.

"The English troops, who occupied Neuve Chapelle last night, advanced several times toward the east, but were repulsed. Minor attacks of the English yesterday north of Neuve Chapelle were also repulsed.

"Fighting in this district still continue.

"In Champagne the situation is generally quiet. In the Vosges there is a heavy snowstorm and only minor operations are going on.

"Eastern theatre—North of Augustowo forest the beaten Russian avoided complete defeat by hastily retreating in the direction of Grodno. More than 4,000 Russians were taken prisoners. Among these were the commanders of two regiments. Three guns and ten machine guns were also taken in the district of Augustowo when the Russians began their retreat toward Grodno.

"Northwest of Ostrolenka attacking germans captured three officers and 220 men.

"North and northwest of Prasnysz the German attacks have made progress. More than 3,200 Russians were taken prisoners yesterday.

"Since giving up Prasnysz the Germans have taken 11,460 Russian prisoners on the battlefields between the Vistula and the Orzyc."

Mme. Curie Aids French Wounded

PARIS, March 12.—Mme. Sklodowska Curie, who with her husband, the late Professor Curie of the University of Paris, discovered radium, is working in hospitals near the front with a complete radiographic equipment. She is described as being employed busily by the military surgeons.

Strong Allied Fleet Again Shells Smyrna

LONDON, March 12.—British demands for the surrender of Smyrna have been rejected by the governor of the Turkish port and a heavy bombardment of the city and all its fortifications has been opened by an English fleet, according to dispatches received from Athens today.

The governor was given twenty-four hours to remove the non-combatant population of the city, the dispatches state, before the British ships opened fire. Panic ensued in Smyrna when the inhabitants were warned to flee.

The British fleet operating at Smyrna is said to consist of three battleships and four cruisers. A dispatch states that two powerful warships have joined the English vessels.

Two of the Smyrna forts were badly damaged by a recent bombardment from the guns of the English cruiser Sapphire, under command of Captain Somerville, but to reach the main forts it was found necessary to use the heavy guns of the battleships.

In the meantime the operations of the allies' fleet in the Dardanelles is continuing. Latest reports state that Fort Chanak Kalesi has been badly damaged by the warships' fire. This fort is one of the strongest guarding the Narrows, into which the French and British warships have thus far been unable to penetrate. One of the magazines in the fortress was blown up by a shell on Wednesday afternoon.

Tenedos advices confirm reports that the fire of the Turkish forts is growing weaker. This is attributed by officials of the British Admiralty to the fact that the Ottoman garrisons lack ammunition and what they have is of inferior quality.

BRITISH MINE TRAWLER SINKS ANOTHER GERMAN SUBMARINE

LONDON, March 12.—The sinking of another German submarine was reported to the Admiralty today by owners of the trawler Alex Chastie. They telegraphed from North Shields that the submarine was fouled by the ropes of the trawler in the North Sea and turned turtle, foundering in twenty minutes with all on board.

The destruction of the third submarine lost by Germany within a week was reported by the captain of the Alex Chastie upon the trawler's return to North Shields. He stated that the underwater craft was apparently trying to ram the vessel, Thursday, when she sank. The captain's report was immediately transmitted here by the trawler's owners.

The German submarines show no decrease in activity despite the recent losses to the Kaiser's under-sea squadron. The coasting vessel Helen reported on her arrival at Liverpool that she was fired upon by a submarine eight miles off the Mersey Bay. The torpedo dispatched by the submarine missed the Helen by twenty yards.

A dispatch from Liverpool states that the Red star liner Lapland was pursued by a submarine shortly after she sailed for New York yesterday with 100 passengers, but her captain crowded on full steam and distanced the submarine. This is the first reported instance of a submarine pursuing an Atlantic liner.

The submarine that is reported to have chased the Lapland is believed by the Admiralty to be the same one that attacked the Helen.

Zeppelin airships or aeroplanes are now beginning a campaign against British shipping in co-operation with the German submarines, according to advices received from Shields. The steamer Linhope reported on her arrival at Shields that a bomb was dropped fifty yards from the vessel Wednesday night. The steamer's crew declared they distinctly heard an airship overhead, but were unable to discern her nature because of the darkness.

ENORMOUS SACRIFICE OF RUSSIAN TROOPS IN THE CARPATHIANS

BERLIN, via Amsterdam, March 12.—The sacrifices of Russian troops by their commanders in the Carpathians are unprecedented in warfare, according to correspondents at Austro-Hungarian headquarters. They assert that the Czar's soldiers are slain by the thousands as they advance in mass formation to capture points of little strategic importance.

They report that the Austrian leaders are following a different method of fighting, carefully conserving the lives of their men. The Austrians have made a marked gain in the last few days at Gorlice, southeast of Tarnow, according to the correspondent of the Lokal Anzeiger, while in southeastern Poland they have repulsed a number of fierce Russian attacks.

"Russian attempts to achieve success at any price along the Carpathian front are leading continually to violent fighting despite the unfavorable weather conditions," he telegraphs.

"These Russian attacks always fall and cost many lives. The number of Russians killed is out of all proportion with the numbers of wounded and prisoners."

RUSSIANS ADMIT GERMANS HAVE MADE GAINS IN POLAND

PETROGRAD, March 12.—That the Germans have made some gains in the great battle now raging on the Narew-Bobr front was officially admitted at the Russian War Office today. It was asserted, however, that the successes of the Germans were only of a minor nature and that they would have no effect upon the result of the conflict.

It is apparent from latest reports from the front that the Germans are making a terrific drive against Ostrolenka and Pultusk. They are already pressing hard against the Russian positions about Prasnysz. In these operations General von Hindenburg is using more than 225,000 men.

The War Office today issued the following summary of military operations:

"The impression left by the renewal of the German advance on Prasnysz from Mlawa and Chorzele is that the Germans are acting under the influence of the results of their army maneuvres during recent years.

"Russians have advanced westward from the Suwalki region and southwards from Lomza and Plock, both advances being undertaken simultaneously.

"The Germans are courting disaster in their campaign.

"Another great battle is no doubt impending. Russians await it with equanimity. The German diversions in the Pilica River is a renewal of their suicidal campaign."

Another German Airship Wrecked

AMSTERDAM, March 12.—Another German military airship was wrecked in Belgium last night, according to information received from the frontier today.

Thank Harvard for War Aid.

M. de Vogue, acting for the French Red Cross Society, and Cecil Spring-Rice, acting for Sir Edward Grey, representing the British government, have forwarded letters thanking Harvard and Yale students for the ambulances which they have contributed for use in the war.

Insists Greece Is to Stay Neutral

ATHENS, March 12.—"Greece will maintain neutrality," was the emphatic declaration made today by Christaskis Zographos, the new Foreign Minister, in the first official utterance he has made since the overthrow of the Venizelos Cabinet. "We can conceive of no emergency now that will force us to enter the war," he continued. "Greece is at peace with her neighbors and wishes to remain so. There will be no change in her foreign policy." With the Chamber of Deputies adjourned for thirty days, by royal decree, King Constantine is now in supreme control. He has ordered the authorities to prevent all war demonstrations on the ground that they must lead to complications of an unpleasant nature.

Report More Bread Riots at Budapest

VENICE, March 12.—Serious riots at Budapest are reported in messages received here today by courier from Vienna. Because of lack of flour, said the messages, the bakers were unable to meet the demand for bread, and their shops were stormed by the infuriated people. Order was restored only with great difficulty. Vienna bakers, fearing for their lives, have petitioned for an allotment of flour from the stocks seized by the military authorities.

5,000 Germans Are Lost in Battle

PARIS, March 12.—At least 5,000 men were lost by the Germans when they were defeated at Neuve Chapelle by the British on Wednesday, according to a dispatch received today from St. Omer.

Major Civrieux, writing for the Matin, declares that the "battle of Neuve Chapelle was the "baptism of fire" for Lord Kitchener's army.

M'ADOO READY FOR OPERATION

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo will be operated upon for appendicitis at the Providence Hospital today.

Mrs. McAdoo and the two physicians accompanied the Secretary to the hospital. As an evidence of his good physical condition, the Secretary made the trip from his home in his motor car.

President Wilson was much concerned today when notified that his son-in-law and Cabinet member had been taken to the hospital to undergo an operation. The President and Mr. McAdoo's official associates are confident that he will stand the operation without ill effects, owing to his robust physical condition and his promptness to call for treatment at the outset of the trouble.

He will be absent from his duties for about a month and no business of any kind will be placed before him while he is interned. During his absence Assistant Secretary Bryon Newton will be Acting Secretary of the Treasury.

Abdul Hamid's Best Liked Son Strangled

SOFIA, Bulgaria, March 12.—Constantinople advices tell of the strangling of Prince Burhan Eddin, best liked son of the deposed Sultan Abdul Hamid. The Prince's body was found in his bedroom. It is believed political enemies murdered him.

Woolens Added to Contraband List

LONDON, March 12.—Official announcement was published in the Gazette this afternoon that raw wool, wool tops, woolens and worsted yarns have been added to the list of contraband. This is another step in England's measures of retaliation against Germany.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder troubles you.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will get fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Advertisement.

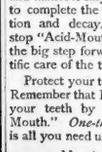
Do You Value Your Teeth?

If you do, it will surely pay you to look out for "Acid-Mouth."

If you expect to save your teeth as well as keep them clean, white and polished, we ask you to revise your idea of a dentifrice. We just ask you to try

Pebeco Tooth Paste



"Here is what women come over to Pebeco. It removes the 'dark-brown' spots on my teeth, caused by tobacco smoking. Yes, and it purifies my breath, too."

Cleanliness counts a lot, but it does not go far enough. "Acid-Mouth" is the worst enemy to good teeth. It is "Acid-Mouth" that breaks down tooth enamel, the "armor plate" of your teeth, and makes it easy for decay-germs to complete the work of destruction and decay. In helping to stop "Acid-Mouth," Pebeco takes the big step forward in the scientific care of the teeth.

Protect your teeth! Save them! Remember that Pebeco helps save your teeth by checking "Acid-Mouth." One-third of a brushful is all you need use.

AMERICAN SLAIN IN MEXICO CITY

WASHINGTON, March 12.—An American citizen, John C. MacManus, was killed by Zapatistas as they were entering Mexico City, and demand has been made for the punishment of the guilty men, who are to be punished this afternoon, presumably by execution.

This word was transmitted to Secretary of State Bryan by the Brazilian minister, representing American interests in the Mexican capital. Secretary of State Bryan stated today that word of the killing of the American was received yesterday and that he immediately demanded punishment of the assassins.

The officer in command of the Zapatistas last night agreed that satisfaction would be given today. The dispatch from the Brazilian minister received states that MacManus was accused by the Zapatistas of having killed three of their comrades at the time they evacuated the city earlier in the year.

Some of the Zapatistas asserted that MacManus met his death after firing upon members of their party, who were trying to get into his house. Other witnesses testified that the Zapatistas fired first. MacManus was originally a resident of Chicago.

To Cure Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness and head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can be successfully treated at home by an internal remedy that in many instances has effected a complete cure after all else has failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear a watch tick have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear.

Therefore, if you know someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrh, or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand to them, and you will have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home, and is made as follows:

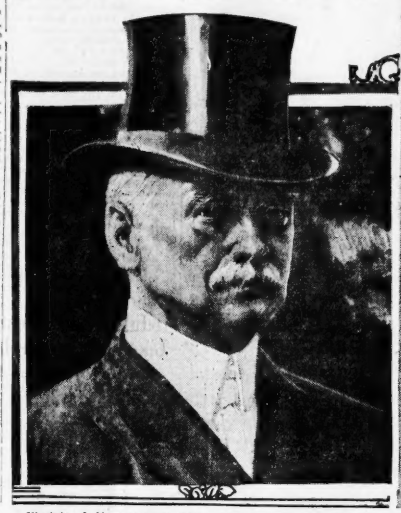
Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength), about 50c worth. Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

The first dose should begin to relieve the distressing head noises, headache, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., while the hearing rapidly returns as the system is invigorated by the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms that show the presence of catarrhal poison, and which are often entirely overcome by this efficacious treatment. Nearly ninety per cent. of all ear troubles are said to be directly caused by catarrh, therefore, there must be many people whose hearing can be restored by this simple home treatment.

Every person who is troubled with head noises, catarrhal deafness or catarrh in any form should give this prescription a trial.—Advertisement.

Another Woman Makes Charges Against Mayo

Susie Wahlers Tells of Girls' Life at the Factory



Virginius J. Mayo as he is today, and two of the girls who claim him as father and whom he is alleged to have deserted in their babyhood in Pennsylvania nearly twenty years ago. They are Marion, 19 years old (at left) and Dorothy, 21, daughters of Mrs. Florence Weeks Mayo of Scranton.

NEW HAVEN, March 12.—Suit for $200,000 against Virginius J. Mayo is the latest possibility in the revelations of Mayo's life, following the suicide of pretty Lillian Cook.

Legal action against Mayo for reparation and the support of a child is threatened by Susie Wahlers of this city who says that Mayo is the father of her little girl born in January, 1913. Says Miss Wahlers:

"He treated me just as he treated Lois Waterbury and waited to establish me just as he has established her after he learned of my plight."

Since the early Autumn of 1912, when her condition made retirement necessary, Miss Wahlers has kept herself in such seclusion as to become almost forgotten by friends. She is described as once having been extremely pretty. She is now just twenty-four and is still handsome, but the bloom of youth has left her face, which is marked with sad lines.

"My child, Hazel Brown Wahlers, we call her, was born January 25, 1913, here in this house," continued Miss Wahlers. "Dr. C. E. Sandford of 159 Shelton avenue, was the doctor. There was also a Dr. Fleishner, who treated me before the baby was born.

"In 1909 I went to work in Mayo's factory. I don't think I was a bad girl. I had gone to the German Lutheran Church for years, and Dr. Metlek, the pastor, seemed my friend. I taught a class in Sunday school.

"But there was something about Mayo—I can't explain it. He was so good and kind—it seemed. He made every one do just what he wanted by being good to them. We, we grew friendly, and I used to wait for him in the office after hours.

"Lois Waterbury was in the office then. I was told she had been there since she was a girl in short dresses. She left in 1910, and I did the work she had done. Ellen Wilson, Lillian Cook's chum, worked there, too, and Mayo seemed kind to all of us. There were many girls in the factory, and they all liked Mayo.

Word from Scranton, Pa., today, says that Mr. Florence Weeks Mayo, the Scranton "wife" who thought Mayo was dead, is determined to punish him for the anguish he has caused her. To that end she is willing to co-operate with any authority, Federal or State, which will institute prosecution. She herself intends to bring the New Haven manufacturer into court, preferably on a criminal action.

M. L. JENNINGS DIES SUDDENLY

Malachi L. Jennings, Massachusetts Ballot Law Commissioner and a widely known expert on election laws, died suddenly at his home in West Roxbury early today. Death came while he was seated in a chair.

Several days ago Commissioner Jennings caught cold, and this became serious, developing into congestion of the lungs. He was nearly forty-two years of age, and would have observed the birthday anniversary on March 23.

Mr. Jennings was placed on the Ballot Law Commission in 1911 by former Governor Foss. He was a prominent authority on ballot laws, and had appeared before the commission many times as counsel. He represented the Whitney interests in the famous contest between Henry M. Whitney and General Charles W. Bartlett for the Democratic nomination for Governor after the Springfield convention.

Mr. Jennings was born in Boston, March 23, 1872. He graduated from the Boston University Law School in 1898, and was commencement orator of his class. Later he was associated in the practice of law with his brother, Stephen A. Jennings, and W. A. Fitzgerald.

He was employed as counsel for the Democratic central organization. He was a member of the Democratic City Committee, and was chairman of the Ward 16 Committee. He was secretary of the central organization in 1902 and 1903.

He is survived by his widow and two children.

Last Monday and Tuesday Mr. Jennings was at Milford in connection with a tie in the vote for a town office. This was the last work he did as commissioner.

HINT BROOKLINE SLAYERS CAUGHT

Two men now held in Wilmington, Delaware, in addition to being suspected of the slaying of the Rev. Joseph Zebris in New Britain, Ct., are now believed by the Brookline police to be the men who killed Charles J. Merrill in a raid on Hitchcock's drug store in Brookline last November.

The suspects, Peter Melba and Bernard Montvid, were arrested charged with the death of a policeman in Wilmington. Montvid in an unguarded moment, admitted to the police he was in New Britain February 8, when Father Zebris and his housekeeper, Eva Gilmanaitis, were slain in the parochial residence.

A watch found on one of the men is believed to be that stolen from the clergyman's clothes. A bunch of keys has been identified, the police say, as that missing from the doors of St. Andrew's Lithuanian Church in New Britain.

Acting on the theory the two suspects have been going from one place to another in New England, a determined effort will be made again today to grill them concerning the Brookline drug store raid. Finger prints have also been taken, which will be compared with the finger prints found in the drug store.

600 AUTOMOBILE SALESMEN IN MERRY "ROUND UP" AT THE COPLEY-PLAZA

By J. C. KERRISON.

The motor round-up held at the conclusion of the show last evening was all that its name implied. The old and the new men in the industry were there, and the Copley-Plaza never witnessed any larger, more enthusiastic, more boisterous or a more good-natured gathering.

Six hundred men in attendance at the show in various official capacities, representing individually the leading manufacturers and dealers of this country and collectively one of the greatest industries in the United States, took possession of the famous ballroom.

The moment a guest entered he was given a chef's white hat on which was branded the legend "Valves in the Head." Across his breast was placed a sash bearing the words "Round Up." In this regalia and only in this regalia was he permitted to enjoy the good things set before him, both gastronomic and vaudeville.

The festivities commenced at 11 and ceased at the pleasure of the individuals, many of whom were late in arriving at the exhibition hoths this morning.

Comprehensive Line in Buick Display

Manager J. H. Johnson of the Buick Boston Company, is making a comprehensive exhibit. This display embodies all the Buick models, including models C-36 and C-24, roadsters; model C-37, the big touring car, and model C-23, a small touring car, and the six-cylinder model. The Buicks have the valve-in-the-head type of motor which always has characterized these cars.

SOCIETY NIGHT BROUGHT IN ALL THE SWELLS

Chevrolet Car Shown Here for First Time

The new Chevrolet "Four-Ninety," which is on exhibition at the Auto Show the first time in Boston, was given a real tryout Wednesday afternoon and evening.

The car, with George Jessop driving, accompanied by a factory man, left the Chevrolet factory in New York for Boston, a distance of 248 miles. Going up Broadway as far as New Rochelle, the car had to plow through a lot of snow, slush and mud, yet in spite of this it made phenominal time.

After leaving New Rochelle, fairly good roads were encountered. The car reached Springfield early in the evening where the driver and the passenger took a brief rest and had dinner. The run then was resumed to Boston, which was reached about 10 o'clock, making the total time for the trip just a trifle more than nine hours.

Much Discussion Over Streamline

Considerable discussion of the streamline body has been heard in the automobile industry, and out of it, since the appearance of the new White cars with streamline bodies differing from the popular conception of this type. The White Company's introduction of a centre cowl, absorbing the back of the front seat in a gentle ripple of the streamline, seems to have started a real controversy over the definition of the word.

J. W. Bate Tells of the Mitchell Line

Otis C. Friend, one of the most prominent figures of the motor world and sales manager of the Mitchell Company, together with John W. Bate, the famous Mitchell engineer, are attending the show. They are both well pleased with the way the Mitchell is selling in this territory.

"I remember," said Mr. Bate, "the first car excitement we had in Chicago, a long distance run from Evanston to Michigan avenue—the enormous distance of twelve miles. Just compare this with the wonderful reliability run the Mitchell has just completed of 7,500 miles over all kinds of roads and through all kinds of climatic conditions, running almost continually day and night, 250 miles every day for thirty days."

Baker Presides at Question Box

The New England section of the National Electric Light Association held a question box convention at the American House. The gathering was presided over by Dexter Baker, manager of the electrical division of the General Vehicle Company.

BENSON SPEAKS TO STUDEBAKER MEN

With several hundred New England Studebaker dealers as his guests, E. R. Benson, vice-president in charge of sales of the Studebaker Corporation, presided at a luncheon at the Lenox Hotel. This was one of the most pleasing functions of the Studebaker convention, which is being held this week in connection with the automobile show. Mr. Benson was introduced by G. N. Jordan, Boston branch manager. Mr. Benson outlined in optimistic fashion the 1915 prospects in the automobile field.

As it is always the purpose of the Studebaker Corporation to have its dealers feel they are part of the great manufacturing company, several officials were present from Detroit.

"The automobile business has passed through necessary stages of development and now is so well established," said Mr. Benson, "that the men who are the channels of distribution throughout the country are entitled to that standing in the business world to which their integrity, acumen, and volume of business entitle them. I for one feel that you gentlemen are merchants, and as such you deserve to be recognized."

Maxwell Car Tows a Five-Ton Truck

The latest stunt of the Maxwell car during automobile show week was performed when one of the regular stock cars of the J. W. Bowman Company towed a five-ton truck over fourteen and a half miles of Boston streets, ending at a point on Commonwealth avenue after having climbed the two grades near the Cottage Farm bridge without the least signs of laboring.

The truck was harnessed by a rope three inches in diameter direct to the rear axle of the Maxwell, and as the signs on the truck indicated, the test was to show the strength of the axle.

Oakland Six Gets Consumption Test

The Oakland six was put to a consumption test under conditions such as it would encounter in the hands of a private owner. The car carrying but one gallon of gasoline, was started in the usual way and then run until the motor "starved." The roads were taken as they came. The car was in the condition it had been left by an owner. The run was made against heavy winds and yet the car traveled 15.4 miles before the gasoline was exhausted.

Has Interesting Tire Exhibit

The Dreadnaught Tire & Rubber Company is showing an interesting exhibit of Dreadnaught and Dixie Tires and Greenaburg Tubes. Two Dreadnaught Tires taken from George H. Robertson's Big Six Hudson car are shown as examples of Dreadnaught quality. One of these tires covered more than 9,000 miles, while the other has run more than 11,000 miles and is still in perfect condition. Such mileages are the rule rather than the exception with Dreadnaughts.

Another pair of Dixie Tires used by Joe Cadrian on his Stutz special racing car has seen over 9,000 miles of service and still retains the original air, neither having ever been off the rim. C. C. Fox, New England manager of the company, reports a very large increase in business and predicts a banner year for Dreadnaught Tires.

Autocar Company Display Interesting

Merchants in all classes of trade who are making a study of transportation by motor car will find something worth while inspecting at the booth of the Autocar Company in Mechanics' building. This company is practically putting all of its effort into one model, the Standard 31 U. F. of 1½ to 2 tons capacity. R. P. Page, Jr., manager of the Boston branch of the Autocar Company, has arranged an interesting exhibit at the show.

Some idea how the Autocar is increasing in popularity for general delivery purposes may be had from the fact that there are over 500 of this make of delivery wagons in use in Massachusetts. The Autocar has won for itself an enviable reputation in its particular field.

Cole Organization Greets Its Leader

END EVIDENCE IN THAW CASE; MAY REACH VERDICT TODAY

NEW YORK, March 12.—All the evidence has been submitted in the trial of Harry K. Thaw for conspiracy to escape from Matteawan. Attorney Stanchfield, chief counsel for the defence, began his summing up at 11:40 o'clock.

Thaw's cross-examination by Attorney Cook today was brief and related to money paid by Thaw in connection with his flight.

After a few unimportant questions on re-direct examination, Thaw was excused and the defence rested its case.

Stanchfield then moved that the court instruct the jury to acquit Thaw on the grounds that the evidence did no show crime; did not show the crime alleged in the indictment, and that Thaw had no criminal intent when he left Matteawan.

Justice Page denied the motions, and Stanchfield began his argument.

The real fight to secure the ultimate freedom of Thaw will come after the verdict is rendered in the present conspiracy.

Barred by Justice Page from presenting the sanity issue before the jury in the case now on trial, the Thaw lawyers planned to have the matter threshed out immediately after the rendering of a verdict holding Thaw guilty or not guilty of conspiracy to escape from Matteawan.

The prosecution has laid its plans to rush Thaw to Matteawan immediately after a verdict is rendered, should the jury hold Thaw blameless of the charge for which he is now on trial.

To combat this move the Thaw lawyers are ready to sue out a writ of habeas corpus to prevent Thaw's return to the asylum. Then will come the long legal battle to decide the sanity issue.

Lawyers who have followed the present case believe that if the sanity issue had been allowed to go before the jury Thaw would have been declared sane. They base their conclusions on the appearance of Thaw on the stand. He is keen, alert, answered questions without the slightest hesitation, whether asked by his counsel or the prosecutor. The old flash, the old combativeness with which he usually answers questions, was gone. He made a good witness. He shouldered all the blame for his escape. His was the mind that conceived the idea, he swore.

WOMEN IN COURT.

The co-defendants, who were ordered to the Tombs pending the outcome of the trial, and Thaw came into court together. Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw and Mrs. Carnegie, Thaw's mother and sister, were early in court and consulted with John B. Stanchfield before the proceedings began. Many women were among the spectators in the courtroom today.

When Thaw was recalled he still suffered from rheumatism. He nodded and smiled at his mother and sister as he took the stand.

When did you first talk to Alfred Henry Lewis and H. C. Hoffman about leaving Matteawan?" was Deputy Attorney-General Cook's first question.

"I do not remember exactly," Thaw replied.

He said that he did not think that any of his counsel ever went into the details as to how he could escape, but he had been advised by Lewis and others that he would be free if he could get out of Matteawan without violence or corruption. He said he paid Butler $5,000 in cash and $1,000 in check. The cash payment was made in New Hampshire about six weeks before Thaw was returned to New York, and the $1,000 check was given Butler in New York.

Questions as to whether Thaw considered himself insane at the time he shot White, whether he was ever insane and the like were ruled out by the court, and Cook then closed his cross-examination.

Curley Cuts Off Deer Island to Stop Sale of Drugs

Mayor Curley has ordered that the House of Correction at Deer Island be cut off from communication with the mainland for thirty days in an efforts to stop the "dope" traffic.

Deputy Commissioner Dennis D. Driscoll, who has been scheduled for discharge since Commissioner Gore was relieved from office, has not been allowed to visit Deer Island. In fact, he has been strictly forbidden to go down the harbor.

The guards and matrons have been denied a day off in seven, a privilege which was given them through an order offered by the Mayor when he was a member of the Board of Aldermen.

New Liquor Laws Proposed in Maine

AUGUSTA, Me., March 12.—Two acts relating to the enforcement of the prohibitory liquor law were presented in the House today by Representative George F. Hill of Corinth. One of the bills provides that all enforcement deputy sheriffs appointed by the sheriffs of the several counties shall be confirmed by the several boards of county commissioners of the counties before entering upon their duties. The other measure provides that all contraband liquors seized in violation of the prohibitory law shall be turned over to the several boards of county commissioners.

Women Sure to Win Vote, Says Mitchel

NEW YORK, March 12.—Mayor Mitchel declared himself for woman suffrage last night at a suffrage meeting at the Brooklyn Academy of Music. He said: "I shall be one of those who will vote in favor of the adoption of the constitutional amendment next November. Many already believe women should vote. I believe it is the general opinion that sooner or later women will have the vote."

Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, bride of former U. S. Chief of Forestry, to distribute food within German lines.

NEW YORK, March 12.—Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester of the United States, today is taking the bride he married last August into the heart of the war zone in France behind the German lines. They left London and will go through Rotterdam, across Holland and Belgium to get behind the German advance in France, where Mr. Pinchot will have charge of the distribution of food to French non-combatants.

Mrs. Lloyd Stevens Bryce of No. 1625 Fifth avenue, mother of Mrs. Pinchot, received the following cable message from London:

"At my request just appointed special agent, State Department, for distribution food to indigent French within German lines. No political significance, but solely to facilitate work."

Mrs. Bryce said that it was necessary, according to messages from her daughter, to have a citizen of a neutral power in charge of this work, although the food will doubtless come from France. In addition to the special commission from the State Department at Washington, she said, Mr. Pinchot also received a commission from President Poincare of France and the approval of the British government.

March 17 Plans Are Completed by South Boston Men

Sub-committees of the South Boston Citizens' Association in charge of the detail of the observance of Evacuation Day, March 17, have all arrangements for the celebration completed.

The association appointed John J. Lydon, P. Joseph O'Leary and J. Frank O'Hare a committee to consider the advisability of affiliating with the United Improvement Association.

RECORD CONCERT IN TEMPLE SERIES

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

Perhaps the largest audience which ever crowded into Tremont Temple was present last night at the sixth and final concert of the regular course. The ticket taker figured that close to 2,000 persons were in the hall.

The concert was the most elaborate yet given in this very popular course, for in addition to a quartet of grand opera singers, a fine chorus of 150 voices under the direction of John A. O'Shea contributed to the entertainment.

There was much interest in the debut of Mme. Clara Huntington. She is a Chicago woman, who has been singing in German opera houses for six or seven years, and was engaged for the Boston Opera Company by Henry Russell. Mme. Huntington came to Boston to fulfil her engagement and did not learn until she reached Boston that the opera season had been abandoned. She proved to be a singer of experience and maturity, with a sweet and flexible lyric soprano. She sang the fore in lul air from "Traviata" with good effect, and made a splendid impression in the soprano solo of the "Inflammatus" from Stabat Mater of Rossini.

Elvira Leveroni, the North End girl, has a legion of admirers, and they seemed to be present in force. She deserves her popularity for a more rich and mellow mezzo, a voice more capable of varying shades of expression, I do not know. She sang with rare intelligence the Prayer from "Gioconda" and a group of English songs.

Attilio de Crescenzo, an Italian lyric tenor who appeared with the Boston Theatre Opera Company last Fall, was heard for the first time in concert. Here is a tenor voice of exquisite quality and purity, a voice worthy of enthusiasm and superlatives. And he sang the beautiful airs from "Boheme" and "Rigoletto" with an Italian verve which captured the house.

C. Pol Plancon, a young French baritone, displayed a voice of much promise. Mr. O'Shea conducted his chorus through "Tannhauser" and "Creation" selections with precision and much effect. The "Inflammatus" was finely done, and "The Lost Chord" sung with superb nuance and expression. The tone of this hastily assembled chorus was excellent, particularly the alto and bass. The patrons of the course were surprised and delighted to learn that an extra concert with Alice Nielsen and Rodolfo Fornari, the Boston Opera baritone, will be given April 8.

Assisting artists last night were Miss Ida McCarthy, piano; Reginald Williamson, organ; Miss Marie O'Connell, accompanist for Mr. Plancon, and Adolph Vogel, cellist.

Police Find Open Window and Safe

A rear window on the second story of the building at No. 76 Summer street, leading to the office of a sporting goods store, was found open early today by officers from the Court Square Station. They also found the safe in the office open with $70 inside. Nothing had been touched. The police believe that some careless employe forgot to close the office properly.

BOARD REPORTS ON SHOPGIRL'S WAGE

Wages paid to shopgirls, based on an examination of 9,465 employes of twenty-six stores in Boston, Springfield, Worcester, Lowell, Lynn, Salem and other cities, form the basis of an exhaustive report just completed by the Retail Store Wage Board, appointed by the Minimum Wage Commission.

Not only does the examination concern the amount of wages received, but it delves into conditions concerning the workers, outside the place of employment, such as other income, mode of living, ages, families, education, opportunities and their lives in general.

The basis for the estimate of weekly wage used by the board was to add the amounts received in a year and divide by the number of actual weeks of work, in most cases less than fifty-two. The shopgirls were divided into two classes, "regulars" and "extras." The two classes are treated separately in the report on the assumption that the "extras" are often not dependent on their store earnings wholly and do not come into the class of all-year-round workers.

Of the "regulars," however, the report states that it found only a little more than half a dozen of them work steadily more than ten months in the year. One half do not work even ten months.

Of the total number of shopgirls examined, the board found that one-third earn less than $6 a week; one-third between $6 and $8, and only one-third $8 or more. In this regard the board says:

"The fact that by far the largest single number of workers, 1,334, or 21.5 per cent., earn less than $100 during the year causes the general tenor of wages paid to appear in a much more serious light."

In eighteen of the twenty-six stores it was found that forty-six girls received under $3; seventeen under $4; forty-seven under $5; seventeen under $6; 109 under $7; 164 under $8; ninety-one under $9; ninety-five under $10; thirty-eight under $12, and 126 $12 or over. The board suggests the establishment of a higher wage.

Of the twelve women with more than fifteen years' experience, only ninety had worked up to a salary of $12 and over. Of counter cashiers and examiners, 290 earned less than $5 a week; only three earned $8 and less than $9; and not one more than $9 a week. Of stock girls, 244 received less than $6 and but one $8 or more, and not one $9 or more.

Messenger girls and bundle girls, it was found, were the poorest paid. Of the number examined, 140 earned less than $3; 209 less than $4, and not one more than $6 a week.

In the "extras" the board found only one-sixth receiving more than $6 a week.

The report of the board fills forty pages, bristling with facts and figures. It is the first comprehensive attempt in Massachusetts to get at actual wage figures in the retail stores, big and little.

WOMAN DIES IN WEST END FIRE

Miss Mary Scanlan, forty-five, lost her life in a fire on the second floor of the dwelling house at No. 30 Nashua street, West End. She was found by Patrolmen Edward A. Burke and Samuel A. Jay after they had broken down doors to gain admission to the house. She was lying on a burning bed, her clothing ablaze. The policemen carried her to the street with her aunt, Catherine Scanlon, sixty-five years old, who was unconscious.

Either Way—Drugs Are Harmful!

If a coffee drinker, have you stopped to think that, with every cup of coffee, you are taking from two to three grains of caffeine, a slow, but powerful, drug?

According to medical authorities, caffeine is a cause of nervousness, heart trouble, indigestion, constipation and other ailments. It's a cumulative drug, and what's more, a habit-forming drug.

Sometimes, when the coffee-drug gets in its licks, you'll realize the harm it does; but wouldn't it be better to avoid trouble—stop coffee now and use Postum.

It is a pure food-drink, made from selected wheat and a little wholesome molasses, carefully roasted, ground and skilfully blended. This gives it a snappy taste much like that rich, old Java, but Postum is absolutely free from caffeine, or any other harmful ingredient.

Postum comes in two forms:—Postum Cereal—requires boiling—15c and 25c pkgs.
Instant Postum—a soluble form—no boiling required—made instantly in the cup with hot water—30c and 50c tins.

The difference is only in the form. Both kinds are equally wholesome and delicious and the cost per cup is about the same. Be sure to ask for the kind you want.

Love's Pet Game

(Blind Man's Buff!)

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1915, by International News Service

TURN a chap loose in the meadow of the world among the flowers that grow there—you say, give him all the time in the world—'til he's a staid (ha) bachelor of thirty—and why should he not find the right blossom for his buttonhole—one that will bloom bravely above the beat of his heart and never wither until the frost kills him too—the flower of his heart until he fails beneath the weight of years? Because—I'll tell you why—because when he wanders out of the gate of boyhood into the meadows of the world, Love, alias Eros, the trifling son of the Goddess of Beauty, climbs to his shoulders and stays there through all the choosing—with his fat fingers tight over the young chap's eyes! How can he always choose aright when he is stumbling with outspread arms and blinded eyes? If he gropes into a pansy-girl and clutches her tight, when a wild-rose girl would have set more beautifully above his heart, whose fault is it? Violet girls with deep eyes and hearts and earnest thought—pansy-girls with calling eyes and perky faces and velvety beauty—wild-rose girls with simple hair and active limbs—daisy-girls with baby faces and modest little tucking in of the chin—nardissus-girls with star-eyes and a pretty, dainty vanity and a wide, white forehead with sometimes a thought behind it—and gardenia-girls with the wax-like sweetness that cloys, exotic, luxurious, untender—they all grow there—but how can a chap tell which he is getting when Love's favorite game is Blind Man's Buff?

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THEY MAY BE RIGHT

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am eighteen years old and have been keeping company with a man three years older than I am. I love this man quite well, but my parents object to me going with him, as does my sister, who says he is not a good fellow. But he is always nice to me and seems to care for me. Please advise me what to do, as I don't like to give him up. BLUE EYES.

THE chances are that your parents and your sister are right. Older folk have more ability to judge a young man's character than a girl as young as yourself. I should wait for a few months or a year, then if no solution of your difficulty offers ask your mother or father to explain in plain words their objection to the young man. Remember that in a matter of opinion they are probably right. But with all this, if you are sure of him and of yourself—stick to him.

IT DEPENDS ON THE PRESENT

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am in love with a young man whom I have met during my business career. He has sent me a birthday present. Would it be right for me to receive it, as I am not keeping company with him? IN DOUBT.

IT is a fair general rule not to accept presents of value from a young man unless you are engaged to him, or are near an engagement. Books, flowers, candy and such small gifts may be accepted without question.

DON'T LET YOUR WIFE CUT YOUR HAIR.

If you do, as a physician points out, in this article, the chances are that it will never grow again in all its original length and beauty.

A MAN AND HIS WIFE

John Takes Isabel Home in a Taxi at the Behest of Their Hostess

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER XIX.

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

"OF course you are going to take a taxi, Jack," said Mrs. Simmons, as John and Isabel Hamilton appeared in the hall, ready for departure. John shook his head.

"Oh, no," he replied. "We don't need a cab now. It's stopped raining.

"That makes no difference," asserted Adelaide. "Your wife had a bad fall on her way here, and it's still very slippery. You go there to the phone and order a cab, like a sensible man."

John laughed as if humoring a delightful child. But he did as he was bid.

"It's more economical," Adelaide told him, "to spend a little money on a cab than to ruin one's clothes. My dear," turning to Isabel and lowering her voice, "you ought to take this kind of thing for granted in dealing with your husband. Men are thoughtless creatures at best, and since Jack did not propose bringing you here in a cab you should have suggested it yourself."

Isabel's pride prevented her confiding to her hostess that she had vainly urged John to do this very thing. It had required but a word from Mrs. Simmons to produce the result that his wife's request had failed to effect.

"Well," said John ten minutes later as he seated himself by Isabel's side in the taxi that was to convey them home, "wasn't it a jolly evening?"

As Isabel did not answer immediately he changed the form of his question.

"You had a good time, didn't you?" he asked.

"Not especially," she replied. "I was conscious all the time of my soiled dress, my torn glove and of the pain in my swollen hand. Besides—"

She checked the sentence that would have sprung to her lips, but her husband looked at her inquiringly. "What were you going to say?" he demanded. "You began with 'besides.' What was the rest of it?"

"I don't think I care to say," she demurred.

"But I wish you to tell me," he persisted. "What was the drawback to your pleasure besides the injuries to your dress and hand?"

"They by themselves were enough to spoil my evening," she evaded.

"You made a good deal of fuss about them," John said, a ring of annoyance in his voice. "It would have been better taste if you had kept silent about to them—especially as I have done all I could to avoid a repetition of the accident by bringing you home in a cab."

HE TRIES VAINLY TO JUSTIFY HIMSELF

"And why did you do it?" Isabel turned upon him accusingly. "Just because Mrs. Simmons told you to—not because I wanted it. Hours ago, when it was pouring rain and I asked you to let me ride to a place to which I was going because you wanted to go you refused. Now, when the rain is over and we could walk home with comparative ease, another woman tells you to go to the phone and order a taxi, and you obey her meekly."

She stopped, catching her breath in her excitement.

"Well—I'll be darned!" exclaimed the man. He gave a short laugh. "That's the way with a woman—no jealous that she can't see another woman's kind-heartedness. Why do you suppose Adelaide suggested my ordering this cab? What good did it do her? Her only idea was to make things comfortable for you. Yet you resent her well-meant efforts as interference."

"Yes, I do," Isabel acknowledged. "For that is what they were. As your wife, I might be supposed to be the one to suggest your getting a cab for me. But no, when Mrs. Simmons is around I must take my place in the background and allow her to direct you and command you as if her claim was superior to mine. Even past friendship does not warrant such liberties."

She had not meant to say as much as this. Perhaps the punch had excited her unduly and given her a courage that was not all her own. Her husband shrugged his shoulders.

"When you are less excited," he remarked coldly, "you may talk more sanely, Isabel. I suppose there never yet was a wife who did another woman justice. Adelaide gave this little party in our honor; she treated you courteously and cordially, and yet you turn against her just because she showed a kindly interest in your welfare and because she happens to be an old friend of mine. She has always behaved in that unconventional way with her men friends, and it means nothing."

"Well, it's mighty disagreeable for the men's wives," Isabel asserted. "But be that as it may, the fact remains that you did exactly what she told you."

"I could hardly do less in her house," John reproved.

"Why was he so calm, and why did he manifest so much less temper than usual when arguing? his wife wondered. Was it because the highballs he had imbibed had benumbed his wits, or had he determined not to break off all intercourse between his friend and his wife by quarreling with the latter about the former?

HE TRIES TO PRAISE THE PEOPLE AT THE PARTY

Perhaps both these influences were at work. Certain it is that John Hamilton dropped the subject as soon as possible and began to talk of the party itself.

"Jolly people there, weren't there?" he observed. "I noticed that you seemed to be having a good time drinking punch with Dennis and Duval. I don't care for Dennis myself—though you appear to like him—but Duval is a nice sort of chap."

"He seemed to be nice," Isabel agreed meekly. It was true that she had taken punch with these men and had laughed and chatted with them, carefully concealing the distaste she felt for her hostess and surroundings. Could she then consistently complain of the evening's entertainment? Since she had pretended to be having a pleasant time she could not prove to John that she had been uncomfortable. Her change of tone had a softening effect on her husband. He laid his hand on hers.

"I am sorry, dear," he sympathized, "that you soiled your gown and tore your glove, and still more sorry that you sprained your poor little hand. I will pay for a new pair of gloves and for having the dress cleaned. You were right, dear, when you said that it is more economical to ride than to walk on a stormy night."

So conciliatory was his manner that Isabel did not call his attention to the fact that it was not she, but Adelaide, who had made the statement which he quoted.

Conclusive Evidence

Ethel had announced that she would be home to tea, but it was nearly 7:30 before she arrived.

"Where have you been, dear?" asked her mother.

"Walking," came the terse reply.

Ethel's mother sniffed.

"And with whom may I ask?"

"No one."

"No one, my dear! Are you quite sure?"

"No one," repeated Ethel, as she slowly pulled an endless hatpin from her hat.

"In that case," continued her mother, "will you please explain how it is that you have returned with a walking stick instead of an umbrella?"

THE HUSBAND HUNTERS

Judy Gives Way to Her Sister Bonnie and Jimmy Compton-Blake Is Amazed

By ANN LISLE

AFTER all the lean years, when every penny had counted and had counted almost in its parts as "ten mills—one cent," Judy Mortimer found a glowing satisfaction in the knowledge that if steak were thirty-eight or twenty-eight cents a pound was not a matter that needed careful inquiry before planning a beefsteak supper. And on the Saturday before her little supper to the Compton-Blakes she lingered over the luncheon table with Bonnie excitedly planning the purchases she was to make during the two hours she allowed herself out of the dance-studio daily.

"We'll start with a canape of Caviar Romanoff," said Judith.

"There is nothing small about you, Miss Hoyt Mortimer," said the younger girl admiringly.

Judy winced a bit, but she did not protest.

Six the next day found her putting the last touches to the pretty table, while Bonnie sat on the edge of the window seat in their pretty dining room and advised her to keep those black tulle angel sleeves out of the candy baskets. "I don't see why you would wear black, Judy. You look stately and pretty, but your pale green would have gone much better with my pink, that makes me look sort of colorless."

"I thought I wouldn't try to look too young," said Judy. "Now let's see, Bonnie, I'll do the mushrooms Newburg and make the percolator coffee. And you'll serve the Peche Washington and cut the cake. That's all settled."

"Yes," returned Bonnie. "I hate fussing with chafing dishes and percolators. I always feel so warm and shiny, and you can't powder your nose between courses in the hall."

"There's the bell—how nice of them to come early. I'll go out and give Nellis the last directions and you slide to serve on and you entertain the Compton-Blakes."

"Maybe it's Clyde Marston or Mr. Travis. It would be just my luck if one of them came first and prevented me from registering a little hit with Jimmie while you and Margaret have a tete-a-tete," laughed Bonnie.

But the Compton-Blakes were the first to arrive, and Bonnie approached the brother and chatted with him so delightfully that he thought her a regular moss-rose of a girl in her soft pinks.

Judith devoted herself to Clyde Marston at table and scarcely turned to young Blake, who sat on her right and next her gay and scintillant little sister. Margaret Compton-Blake was finding Dick Travis a delightful companion.

"Aren't you going to talk to me at all?" asked Compton-Blake, turning at last to Judith as she stirred the mushrooms in her chafing dish. "Your sister says you ought to be given a chance, as Travis and Margaret and Clyde are old friends."

Something in his tone made Judy deepen in color beyond the glow induced by her work over the chafing dish.

"Is that fair?" she asked. "I don't think you ought to tease me. Friends don't do that."

"I'm not teasing you—I'm trying to flirt a little"—

Judy raised her eyes in surprise and started involuntarily. As she moved a sudden breeze stirred the window curtains and blew across the flame of the alcohol lamp of her chafing dish. In a second the soft "angel sleeve" that hung loosely across her arm was in a blaze and time flames licking up toward her shoulder. For a second no one stirred. Then Bonnie began to scream hysterically—and Margaret covered her face with her hands and began to moan in terror.

And then in another minute Jimmie Compton-Blake was treading out the smouldering ruins of her angel sleeve and his coat was muffling her torn waist, and his voice sounded in her ear. "All safe now, dear."

Judy escaped quite unharmed, and though no one wanted any Newburgh of mushrooms, the supper proceeded quite calmly on after the escaped victim had insisted on changing her dress and going on with her supper.

"I'm not burned—but I am hungry," cried Judy. "Why should we all starve? What a queer way that would be to reward the hero!"

But her head was whirling and she did not eat much supper. She kept wondering why Jimmie Compton-Blake had called her "dear"—and thinking how splendidly he had been to act so promptly that no harm had been able to come to her.

Young Compton-Blake followed her out in the hall. "You didn't whimper when you were facing those flames and death—or disfigurement, Judy," he said. "But there are tears in your eyes now. Why?"

"I don't know," cried Judy in fright of some sweet strangeness in the whispered conversation out in the little hall.

Suddenly Judy saw Bonnie's rose tinted face and eager eyes. Bonnie always got what she desired from life. And Bonnie's great ambition and longing was — Jimmie Compton-Blake.

"I guess it's the reaction," whispered Judy wearily. "I'm awfully tired. I know Margaret will excuse me if I go lie down for a few minutes—and Bonnie will bandage your hand."

The astonished Mr. Compton-Blake found himself staring at a closed door behind which Miss Hoyt-Mortimer had vanished.

FRECKLES

February and March Worst Months For This Trouble—How to Remove Easily.

There's a reason why nearly everybody freckles in February and March, but happily there is also a remedy for these ugly blemishes, and no one need stay freckled.

Simply get an ounce of othine, double strength, from any Biker-Jaynes Drug Store or any other druggist and apply a little of it night and morning, and in a few days you should see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the light ones have vanished entirely. Now is the time to rid yourself of freckles, for if not removed now they may stay all Summer, and spoil an otherwise beautiful complexion. Your money back if othine fails.—Advertisement.

QUIZ POLICE HEAD AT ANGLE TRIAL

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., March 12.—Cross-examination of Police Chief Brennan of Stamford was resumed today at the trial of Mrs. Hope M. Angle, accused of manslaughter in the case of Waldo R. Hallou.

He said when he was asked about the blood-stained skirt and shirt-waist which have already been put up in evidence, Mrs. Angle told him she had not worn them the night Hallou died, and insisted on showing him garments which she said she had worn.

The chief said in his first interview with Mrs. Angle she had denied all knowledge of any injury to Hallou, but later said it was all due to a "drunken brawl."

"I asked why she had not notified the police or called a doctor," said Brennan. She replied, according to the witness, "that she was afraid of the notoriety which she thought would follow." The witness then identified a pair of spectacles which were found on a box on the back piazza of the Angle premises and which it is claimed belonged to Mr. Hallou. Later, when asked to explain how the glasses came to be there, the witness said Mrs. Angle replied that she could not remember.

In later conversation with her Chief Brennan said Mrs. Angle told him that she had wiped up blood marks in the hallways and explained "that's how the footprints came to be in my room."

Chief Brennan said that when he knocked at the door of Mrs. Angle's room, after having traced bloodstains up the stairway to her door, she asked: "Who's there?" The chief told her. "Can I see you alone, Bill?" the witness said she asked.

He explained he and Mrs. Angle had known each other between twenty and thirty years and called each other "Bill" and "Nellie."

The chief then said he asked her if anything had happened between herself and Hallou and she replied: "No, cross my heart, nothing has happened."

Want to Reduce Weight? Sun and Milk Will Do It

Daughter of Supreme Court Justice Tells How to Become Sylphlike.

NEW YORK, March 12.—Do you want to reduce? Are you burdened with superfluous fat? Well, cheer up. A simple remedy has been found that will make you sylphlike and beautiful. At least, so states Miss Ruth Richmond, who says she lost thirty pounds in six weeks through a sunshine and milk cure.

Asked to elucidate, Miss Richmond, who is the daughter of a Justice of the Supreme Court of Texas, said:

"A lot of people believe that physical exercise is the surest and only way of reducing flesh. While I think general exercise is valuable to those who are too stout, my discovery is simpler and more effective.

"Sunshine, plenty of it daily, and a diet of skimmed milk will do the work. I took a glass every two or three hours for three days, then only half a glass every two or three hours for the next three days, and then for three days more only a third of a glass. By gradually lessening the nourishment I did not feel it so keenly. For another three days I added a raw egg and a little broth and then returned to my skimmed milk diet. I lost flesh daily until in six weeks I had disposed of thirty pounds and felt better than I had in years."

"What part did the sunshine play in the cure?"

"Well, I went out three times every sunny day. I made a sort of pilgrimage with my mind fixed on a concrete image of how I wanted to look, and while I sat in the sunlight I pictured myself weighing just what I wanted to. It helped. I am sure of it.

FOUR DEMOCRATS KILL 'HOME RULE'

Betrayal of party faith by four Democratic members of the House of Representatives defeated the bill by which Fall River sought to secure a home rule administration of its police and license commission. The bill was defeated by one vote, 104 to 103.

Although the Democratic platform contained a "home rule" plank and despite the further fact that Governor Walsh, in his inaugural address, recommended passage for Fall River, the four Democrats voted against the bill. They are Patrick F. Murray, Jr., of Boston; George L. Carson of Boston, John J. Scully of Boston, and Joseph LaFleur of Southbridge.

Fall River's police commission is appointed by the governor. Fall River is the only city in the state with two cities of the first class, whose commissions are appointed by the governor. Hill, the bill originated here. It would allow the Mayor and aldermen of Fall River to appoint the police commissioners, to manage the police department, the other to perform the clerical clerking of the latter. The bill contained a referendum.

All over the Republican cities declared for home rule in cities, the Republican leaders lobbied and voted against the bill.

Flonzaleys Give Final Concert of Boston Season

The Flonzaleys gave their third and final concert of the season in Boston last night in Jordan Hall. The audience was large and thoroughly appreciative.

The quartet played an excellent program excellently. At strings the Flonzaleys excel anyway, and as usual they triumphed and their hearers with them.

Their first was Brahms' Quartet in C minor, Opus 51, No 1. This was exquisitely done, especially the initial "allegro" and the "romanza." Indeed the whole was a thing of beauty, rendered with the utmost velvety smoothness.

If Brahms, as the quartet interpreted, charmed and entranced, so too did Alfred Pochon's performing of three preludes by Emanuel Moor in suite form for solo violin. The composer isn't so well known that he can be called an old friend, but Mr. Pochon's brilliant work made him speak with that eloquent tongue which calls for better acquaintance. The Moor preludes are unique in style, but thoroughly human and appealing, and Mr. Pochon made them live and throb, and he deserved the hearty applause he received.

Beethoven's Quartet in C-sharp minor, Opus 100, closed the program. This too was splendidly done.

TAFT SEES EUROPE CURED OF FIGHTING

HANOVER, N. H., March 12.—"We have every reason to believe that when this terrible war those engaged in it will recognize the desirability of settling their differences by other means than seeking each other's throats," declared ex-President Taft in a lecture to [illegible] Dartmouth students.

That unions must be tolerated they are not a privileged class, immune from laws of the land, was the opinion of Professor Taft in dealing with the question of labor and capital. "Privilege to any class, whether labor or capital, introduces a tyranny which means destruction to the democracy of the republic."

He held that a fool-proof machine was not to be found in politics, because all governmental machines fail dismally when the people neglect electoral obligations.

Professor Taft said the reaction from political corruption during the last generation has caused the pendulum to swing to the extreme of over-investigation of business and political conditions.

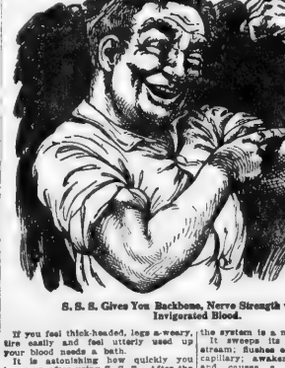
Spring Time—Remember Is Blood Cleaning Time

Entire System is Clogged—Great Hordes of Germs Congest the Blood to Cause Pimples, Boils, Carbuncles, Eczema and Other Skin Diseases.



S. S. S. Gives You Backbone, Nerve Strength with Pure, Invigorated Blood.

If you feel thick-headed, logy a-weary, tire easily and feel utterly used up your blood needs a bath.

It is astonishing how quickly you brace up after using S. S. S. After the long nights of winter have slowed you down, made your blood sluggish, and filled your system with the cramps, aches and acids of thick, stagnant blood you actually require the influence of S. S. S.

Eczema, rash, pimples, tetter, boils, and all impurities in the blood are quickly washed out by the remarkable action of S. S. S. It is in the nature of a bath for your blood. It is not a "dope," not a "physic," there is not a drop of harmful mineral drugs. It is a far better friend to your nerves than any "nerving" you can use because it is just as pure as the gruel you would feed to an invalid. The blood takes kindly to S. S. S., it doesn't bother your stomach but it does give you strength.

Rheumatism, catarrh, malaria, bronchitis, typhoid and all such painful or dangerous maladies cannot remain in a system washed and cleansed by the remarkable action of S. S. S.

There is scarcely a drug store or general store anywhere but what keeps S. S. S. in stock. It is prepared from one of the world's best and largest botanic stores and has maintained the health of a host of people who use it every spring and fall because it gives them a feeling of renewed strength, puts the look of health in the eye and pinks the flesh with the ruddy glow of health.

The human body, like the habitation of man, is closed all winter and becomes clogged with stagnant impurities. In the spring nature attempts to overhaul the blood and thus we see pimples, boils, carbuncles and various skin afflictions breaking out to relieve the congestion within.

The remarkable manner in which S. S. S., the famous blood purifier, clears the system is a most interesting study.

It sweeps its way into the blood stream; flushes every artery, vein and capillary; awakens functional activity and causes a wonderful animation throughout.

There is one ingredient in S. S. S. which serves the active purpose of stimulating the myriad of cells to the healthy and judicious selection of their own essential nutriment. And if, from the presence of some disturbing poison a condition of eruptive disease is set up, S. S. S. so directs the action of the local cells that the poison is rejected and eliminated from their presence.

Thus, when the cells break down to cause the formation of carbuncles S. S. S. so stimulates cellular activity that new and healthy materials are rapidly supplied and eruptions cease. The same is true of mucous inflammations, of acid accretions and all those influences which cause rheumatism, catarrh, eczema, lupus, psoriasis, tetter, etc. The action of S. S. S. in effect is like giving the entire blood supply a good bath.

The medicinal properties of S. S. S. are relatively just as vital and essential to well balanced health as the food components of the grains, meats, fats and sugars.

And of one thing you may be certain there is not an atom of mercury, calomel, blue mass, iodide of potash or arsenic, nor does S. S. S. contain any other mineral.

It is a pure vegetable medicine and wonderfully acceptable to even a very weak stomach.

Get a bottle of S. S. S. from any druggist and note how quickly it puts your blood in fine condition. It is just what you need, a fine, bracing, purifying medicine that is sure to do you a world of good. And if you are troubled with some stubborn form of blood disease, write to the medical department of The Swift Specific Co., 164 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga., for free private advice.

FANS CHEER 2ND SOX SQUAD AWAY

Over 1,000 fans crowded and pushed into the South Station today to see the second division of the Red Sox players off on their trip for Hot Springs. As the train pulled out three cheers were given the players. They occupied the last car and the crowd followed the train clear out of the long shed.

Secretary "Eddie" Riley had the group in charge. The players who left the South Station were Manager Dave Sheehan and C. Masterman of the Providence club, Harold Janvrin, Hendricken, Cutcrer, also of the Providence club, and Billy Sheridan of the Western Union. Larry Gardner got on the train at Trinity place.

Newark Will Stay in the Federal League

NEW YORK, March 12.—Patrick T. Powers, who with Harry Sinclair owns the Newark club of the Federal League, asserted today that no matter what the issue of the league's legal dispute with the Kansas City men, Newark was assured of the team. "We bought the franchise and that's all there is to it," said Powers. "It is up to the league to settle any wrangle over the Kansas City club."

PITCHER COST BROWNS $4,200

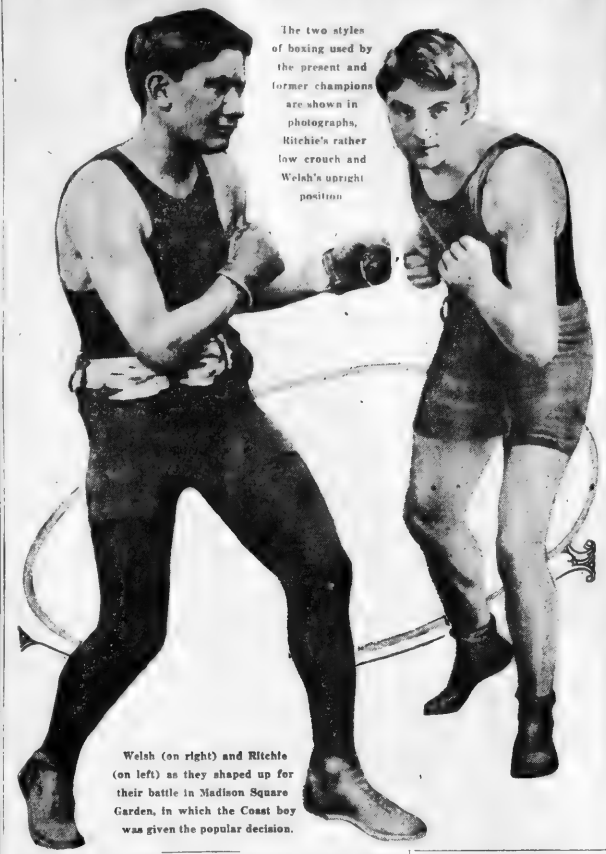
A St. Louis statistician has figured it out that the sole game won in 1914 by Pitcher Leverens cost the Browns $4,200—probably the most costly victory in the history of baseball.

Leverens was wanted by the Feds. They offered him 4,000 Kopecs. Leverens was a star performer in 1913 and the Browns didn't want to let him get away. So they raised the ante $200 and Leverens signed up at $4,200 for the 1914 season.

Leverens won exactly one game in attempting to earn his keep. He started the season with ten straight defeats. Then he performed in one game of a double header against the White Sox on September 16 and came home in front. He pitched in other games later in the season, but was beaten every time.

"$4,200 for one victory? Yep, it's a fairly sizeable price.

WILLIE RITCHIE SHADES WELSH



The two styles of boxing used by the present and former champions are shown in photographs, Ritchie's rather low crouch and Welsh's upright position

By W. S. FARNSWORTH.

NEW YORK, March 12.—Willie Ritchie shaded Freddie Welsh, the lightweight champion at Madison Square Garden in one of the tamest ten-round fights ever seen in New York. It was a terrible exhibition for two champions, and at the end it was almost impossible to pick a winner, so slight was Ritchie's margin.

It was really "no contest." Ritchie did all the forcing and if it came right down to a fine point, he deserved a shade. Welsh blocked most of his offerings, but landed the cleanest blows of the bout, few as they were.

Ritchie showed that he lacked work and had he a few fights under his belt since he lost his title last July in London he would have given Welsh an artistic trimming.

Welsh gave one of the poorest exhibitions for a champion in the annals of the game. He fought on the defensive throughout, absolutely refusing to stand up and exchange with the Californian. Welsh was as wild as a March hare from start to finish.

Ritchie deserved what credit there was to be had. He at least tried from the time he climbed into the ring. His one hope, however, was to drop Welsh for the count.

The only real round of the fight was the seventh. Ritchie started as in the other rounds by swinging both hands continually for the body and, while Welsh blocked most of these, two hard ones shot through his guard at the bell.

Welsh made his best showing in the ninth round. He boxed cleverly and for the first time during the fight timed his straight left and right hooks with precision.

If they had been preliminary fighters both would have been out of the ring.

FIRST ROUND.

Both men rushed out of their corners. Ritchie was the first to land with a straight left, which Welsh ducked. For a few minutes they were in action, neither landing a blow. Welsh was the first to land with a long left on the nose. More wrestling followed. As they broke out of a clinch, Ritchie shot a left to the jaw with a little steam behind it. Both seemed content to size up each other's attack. IT WAS AN EVEN ROUND.

SECOND ROUND.

They rushed out of their corners and went into a clinch. Ritchie worked his right hand to the body at close quarters. Welsh jabbed his left and missed a hard right to the jaw. They did a lot of fencing but neither was able to land. In a long clinch Willie used his forearm to freshen up. Welsh grabbed a left to the face and received a right uppercut in return. Welsh here in with a hard jab and took a right hook on the jaw. Ritchie followed with a hard right to the face a few seconds later. At the bell Willie planted another right to the body. IT WAS RITCHIE'S ROUND.

THIRD ROUND.

They came out of their corners fast, in this round. Ritchie and Welsh swung wildly, but found no place but Welsh's arms, but finally landed a right in the stomach. He kept swinging for the body but Welsh picked off the punches with his arms. Freddie stepped back and tripped his opponent. Welsh landed a hard left to the body and neat two punches caught high on the head. Just as the bell rang Ritchie landed a right to the head. RITCHIE DID ALL THE FORCING AND DESERVED THE ROUND.

FOURTH ROUND.

They again rushed from their corners and Ritchie sent a light left to the body. Welsh then ripped two lefts to the head and a right to the body. Welsh swung a left hook to the head, grabbed the face twice with the same hand and then ripped in a hard right to the stomach. Ritchie and Welsh rushed together in a clinch and they went into a clinch. At the bell they were in a clinch and neither was doing any damage. IT WAS WELSH'S ROUND.

FIFTH ROUND.

Ritchie led with a left and right, but was blocked both times. Ritchie landed a right and left and right and went into a clinch. Welsh blocked a left to the ear. They exchanged straight lefts to the face and Ritchie missed a hard right. Welsh landed a hard left and right and Welsh jabbed to the face. Ritchie did a lot of fencing, but was wild and had the bug of timing his punches. Welsh shot a left to the face and landed one. Ritchie missed a hard right swing. At the bell they were in a mix up and Ritchie shot a right to the head. IT WAS WELSH'S ROUND.

SIXTH ROUND.

Ritchie led with his left, but it was short. Welsh then received a left to the head that turned Ritchie around with another straight left to the face and a right to the body. Ritchie swung a right to the head, missed and received a hard left to the face. Ritchie missed a hard right swing and Welsh jabbed to the face. Ritchie did a lot of fencing, but was wild and had the bug of timing his punches. Welsh shot a left to the face and landed one. Ritchie missed a hard right swing. At the bell they were in a mix up and Ritchie shot a right to the head. IT WAS WELSH'S ROUND.

SEVENTH ROUND.

Ritchie led with his left, but it was short. Welsh then received a left to the head that turned Ritchie around with another straight left to the face and a right to the body. Ritchie swung a right to the head, missed and received a hard left to the face. Ritchie missed a hard right swing and Welsh jabbed to the face. Ritchie did a lot of fencing, but was wild and had the bug of timing his punches. Welsh shot a left to the face and landed one. Ritchie missed a hard right swing. At the bell they were in a mix up and Ritchie shot a right to the head. IT WAS WELSH'S ROUND.

EIGHTH ROUND.

NINTH ROUND.

Ritchie started by forcing and all Welsh did was block and back up. Even men were wild, and no punishment was given. Ritchie kept forcing the Englishman all over the ring but failed to connect. Welsh was landing left hooks to the face. Ritchie then landed another left to the face. They got to close quarters and Willie brought a right up to the wind. IT WAS WELSH'S ROUND.

TENTH ROUND.

They shook hands and stepped in. They exchanged lefts and rights, then clinched. Welsh caught a hard right and left to head and went to close quarters, with no fighting being done. They stepped back and fell into another clinch and the crowd booed. Welsh shot two hard lefts to the face and blocked everything Willie had. Welsh stabbed two lefts and then went into a clinch until broken by Referee Hoche. Willie then rushed with both hands to the body but Welsh blocked them all. They got to close quarters and Ritchie landed a right to the body at the bell there were in a clinch. IT WAS WELSH'S ROUND.

Yale Baseball Star Breaks His Ankle

NEW HAVEN, March 12.—The Yale freshman nine lost a prominent infielder when Charlie Eddy of Bay City, Mich., broke his right leg at the ankle while attempting to slide bases.

Hyde Golf Favorite.

PALM BEACH, March 12.—J. R. Hyde, a former Florida golf champion, from Brooklyn, is the favorite in the final for the State championship tourney that will be played today.

Goulette Loses Mat Bout.

Paul Bowser of Pittsburgh defeated Peter Goulette of Woonsocket in straight falls at the Grand Opera House. The first fall was secured in 36 minutes of wrestling and the second one in 19 minutes.

"The Rabbit's" Column By Walter J. Maranville SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

MACON, Ga., March 12.—Every member of the Braves team is today pulling for the recovery of Bill Sweeney, former Georgetown baseball star, who was so unfortunate as to break his right leg while sliding at the local ball park here yesterday afternoon. Martin was a promising young player and was almost certain of being retained by Stallings. It was because of this he would be the first string utility man. The Braves' boss has been searching for another infielder but the members of the team were of the opinion that Martin would be placed ahead of all comers.

Martin was a hard-working, earnest ball player. He possesses plenty of class but seems to be followed by a jinx. He was an all-round star when at Georgetown and won his letter in baseball and football. I am informed that he was one of the greatest athletes ever developed at Georgetown. He first joined the Braves late last Summer but did not have much of an opportunity to display his best form, as he was not in very good condition.

When the World's Series ended last Fall, Martin returned to his home in Washington and immediately started to prepare himself for the 1915 baseball campaign. He was determined to win a berth with the Braves and I feel sure that he would have made good if he had not been injured. He used to cover from five to ten miles on the road two or three times a week. He also took long workouts in a gymnasium. In this way he removed most of the superfluous flesh which was on his frame.

• • •

Martin kept training every minute when he joined the squad here. He was always the first player to reach the ball park each day and the last one to start back for the hotel. His heart was in the game all the time and he delighted in setting the pace for the rest of the gang out at the ball park.

• • •

Stallings will now be obliged to secure another infielder. He will probably try and land a couple of infielders if he is able to do so. The boss, however, will be satisfied if he can secure the services of one high-grade performer. Mr Gaffney tried to get Ed Fitzpatrick from the Toronto club but there is some hitch to the deal and it may be called off. With Martin on the injured list, I would not be surprised if Mr Gaffney made another bid for Fitzpatrick.

• • •

A ball club must have plenty of reliable utility players if it hopes to keep up in a league race. Some of the veterans are certain to be injured during the season, and a club will shoot to the bottom of the ladder very rapidly if it has not some classy second string men on its payroll.

• • •

A great deal of the success of the Braves last year was due to its fine secondary defence. In Whitted, Dugey and Deal we had three great infielders who would hold down a regular berth on almost any club. Whitted could also play the outfield and, consequently, only missed a few games after he joined the club.

• • •

Deal proved the man of the hour in the World's Series, taking "Red" Smith's place at third base when the latter broke his leg just before the big show got under way.

• • •

Whitted and Dugey have since been traded to the Phillies, while Deal jumped to the Federals. Stallings, however, is a great manager and will solve the difficulty. I believe that my colleague, Julian Hawthorne, described Stallings correctly when he wrote: "Stallings is known to failure, and, like love, will always find a way."

CHILD'S TONGUE BECOMES COATED IF CONSTIPATED

When cross, feverish and sick give "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is they become tightly clogged with waste. liver gets sluggish, stomach sours, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other with contempt. For sale by Boston druggists and all good druggists.—Advertisement.

PAINFUL ECZEMA ON BABY'S NECK

And Arms. Broke Out in Water Blisters. Clothing Irritated. Would Scream When Bathed. Cuticura Frees From Eczema.

Jefferson, Me.—"When my baby was two months old eczema broke out on her in water blisters. Her neck and under the arms were affected most. They broke open and would not heal and were very painful at times. Her clothing irritated when ever it came in contact with the sore places. She would scream when we bathed her.

"They said it was eczema. I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and could see an improvement after the first application. I bought more and before I had used the Soap and one box of the Ointment she was free from the eczema." (Signed) Mrs. Frank Tibbetts, Oct. 27, 1914.

Willard Leaves for Scene of Battle

EL PASO, Tex., March 12.—Jess Willard accompanied by his manager, Tom Jones, left here for Havana, where the big cowboy will be trained for the championship on Easter Monday. Only yesterday Willard said financial arrangements had not been completed but his departure today was taken to indicate that the matter of the battle had been satisfactorily arranged.

Kilbane Starts Training.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 12.—Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion of the world, who will defend his title against Johnny Dundee of Scotland, in Boston, March 17, is now training at the Penn A. C. in this city. Kilbane is in fine condition and will be ready for the bout when the time arrives.

RECORD ENTRY FOR AMATEUR BOUTS

Great interest is being manifested in the New England boxing championships, which are to be held in Mechanics building on March 22.

The attendance show held under the auspices of the Boston Athletic Association on January 19 demonstrated that New England has as good amateurs as any in the country.

On account of the entire list of classes being held and the large number of entries expected, the tournament will start at 6 p. m. Entries are expected from all over New England and indications point to giving this the most successful New England tournament ever held.

Of the New England champions of 1914, Ray Durette of Cambridge will not be able to defend his title as he turned professional.

Steve Philbin of Revere will defend his title in the 158-pound class, having as a competitor B. A. Saville, who won the welterweight class in 1914.

Arena Seven Falls Before Aberdeens

The Aberdeens of Ottawa, one of the two contenders for the hockey championship of Canada, the home of the ice game, defeated the Arenas seven, 4 to 3, in a slashing game on the local rink. Though left way behind in the first period, the lowly boys, led by Captain Patsy Begg, made a gallant attempt to snatch victory from defeat but just fell short. The Canadians displayed dazzling speed and stickwork.

CHICAGO WHITE SOX.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 12.—In the tenth inning the Chicago White Sox broke a 3 to 2 tie with the Los Angeles Coast Leaguers in the first game of the second exhibition series and won, 7 to 2. Eddie Collins duplicated his recent feat of getting four hits in four times up.

PITTSBURGH PIRATES.

DAWSON SPRINGS, Ky., March 12.—With teams made up of ten men, the Pittsburgh club had its first practice game of the season. The regulars were defeated in a six-inning battle, 3 to 1. Eddie Mensor, a sub-outfielder, has been turned over to the Columbus American Association club.

CINCINNATI REDS

ALEXANDRIA, La., March 12.—The Reds had two fast workouts. Ivy Wingo practiced in right field, which may be his regular position. "Rube" Benton looks best of the pitchers. Griffith improves in base running.

BROOKLYN DODGERS.

DAYTONA, Fla., March 12.—Jack Karst, Brooklyn's infield recruit, is suffering from a double dislocation of the ankle joint and torn ligaments, received in practice. The Superbas defeated Stetson University, 16 to 0.

ST. LOUIS CARDINALS.

HOT WELLS, Tex., March 12.—The Cardinals played a nine-inning practice game with the Hot Wells team, winning, 4 to 2. The pitchers were cautioned not to put any stuff on the ball.

CLEVELAND INDIANS.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 12.—Centrefielder Leibold of the Indians has jumped to the Buffalo Feds. His jump was not unexpected by the Cleveland management, which made no effort to restrain him.

WASHINGTON SENATORS.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., March 12.—Bonneau the outfielder purchased from the American Association, reported to Manager Schlafly of the Buffalo Federals here, and the first one to greet him was his old teammate, Hugh Bedient. Engle has been spending the Winter in Boston.

CUBS AND ATHLETICS.

TAMPA, Fla., March 12.—The Athletics' first team, led by Harry Davis, lost a third straight game to the Chicago Cubs, 5 to 4. The Athletics open a series of games with the Phillies at St. Petersburg today.

ST. LOUIS BROWNS.

HOUSTON, Tex., March 12.—Warm weather has set the baseball bugs in motion in the St. Louis Browns' camp. A game has been scheduled with Rice Institute for today. Tomorrow and Sunday one of the two teams will play in Galveston.

NEW YORK YANKEES.

SAVANNAH, March 12.—Regulars beat Yannigans, 1 to 0. There were only seven hits by both clubs. The defensive was again excellent, but again it was evident the offensive is weak. Maisel, however, got two doubles.

NEW YORK GIANTS.

MARLIN, Tex., March 12.—Doyle's team today defeated the Snodgrass Zouaves, 6 to 4, in seven innings. Principal features was catching by Lou Wendell. The Indian pitcher, Homer Clare, made a strong impression.

BUFFALO FEDERALS.

ATHENS, Ga., March 12.—Clyde Engle, the former Red Sox player, reported to Manager Schlafly of the Buffalo Federals here, and the first one to greet him was his old teammate, Hugh Bedient. Engle has been spending the Winter in Boston.

Paige Again Leader in Title Billiards

With an unfinished run of 25, inclusive of several fine masse shots, William Paige defeated Ray Van Arsdale, 200 to 548, in the class A championship of New England at the Imperial and broke the tie between himself and Walter Thurston for first place in the tournament. Paige now has won four games and lost none, while Thurston has won three and also has not met defeat.

Paige has only two more games to play and the most interesting thing is whether he and Thurston will come together in the final games as an adjudicated pair, with the New England title at stake.

Poggenburg Victor.

PHILADELPHIA, March 13.—J. F. Poggenburg, New York, defeated R. M. Lord, Chicago, 400 to 390, after an exciting finish in the eighteenth game of the class A amateur billiard tournament for the national championship.

Feds' Counsel Says O. B. Ready to Quit

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 12.—Keene Addington of the Federal League legal forces stated here today, where he is spending what he terms a much-needed rest, that organized baseball is ready to quit and that Judge Landis' decision, when it comes, will be in favor of the Federals.

"Before I came down here," said Addington, "I offered to bet $100 in the University Club of Chicago that Walter Johnson would pitch the opening game at Weehman's Park, but there were no takers. And several of the crowd were in sympathy with organized baseball at that."

INJURY TO BILL MARTIN LEAVES MANAGER STALLINGS WITHOUT EXTRA INFIELDER

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTING NEWS

FIRST BASEMAN HOBLITZELL REPORTS AT RED SOX CAMP IN PRIME SHAPE FOR START

Bill Martin Breaks His Leg

Brave Is Injured in Slide

MACON, Ga., March 12.—Bill Martin, the only utility infielder on the Braves' squad who broke his right leg here yesterday, will be unable to play for the champions until August at the very earliest, according to a statement made today by the physician in charge of the hospital where the former Georgetown star is confined.

The loss of Martin is a hard blow to Stallings' fighting team. He was the only extra infielder with the squad and was depended upon to act as understudy for the star members of the Braves' "billion dollar" infield.

Martin received his injury late yesterday afternoon. The game between the Braves and the Mercer College team had been completed and most of the players had left the ball park. Martin, who was babbling over with enthusiasm, decided to practice base running for a few minutes. He started down the third base line for home plate and took a flying slide.

How the Accident to Martin Happened.

The youngster had on a new pair of baseball shoes with long, sharp spikes. The spikes caught in the ground when Martin first hit the dirt. The momentum at which he was traveling carried his body forward and his right leg doubled up under him.

The former collegian suffered great agony and was rushed to a local hospital. Upon examination it was discovered that he had broken his right leg just above the ankle. He broke the same leg lower down while playing ball for Georgetown last year.

George Stallings, manager extraordinary and boss of the unbeatable Braves, is today telling the citizens of this man's town that Dick Rudolph is going to make the greatest record of his career in the box this year. The "Little Master" has had his first official tryout for 1915 and became through the test with flying colors.

The grand ceremony was celebrated yesterday, when the champions defeated the Mercer College team in a seven-inning skirmish by a count of 11 to 2.

Rudolph Shows Class on His First Try Out.

Rudolph has been here for ten days and has been busy all the time. Consequently he was there with bells on when Stallings gave him the signal to lead the attack on the enemy. We do not wish to infer that Richard was so cruel as to let loose with all of his "stuff" at this early stage of the game. He is not made on those lines, but managed to hold Mercer down to five hits and allowed them but one tally during the five sessions that he was on the mound.

It was a treat to watch the little New Yorker amuse himself at the expense of the collegians. He relied on a fast curve ball the greater part of the time, but fooled the local lads by changing his style of delivery. He made them all hit when it was possible to do so. He was anxious that Sherwood Magee and the rest of the gang get a little practice in sprinting around the dear old outfield here, which is far from being as smooth as a billard table.

When men were on bases, Rudolph usually proved invincible. The Mercer youngsters—none of 'em are only twenty-five—tried hard to connect with his slants but were not very successful in doing so.

So much for "Richard the Great." Now enter one Gene Cocreham, tall, lean and rangy. He it known that Gene is a pitcher. He was with the Braves last year and "Miracle Man" Stallings informed us this glorious young morning that friend Cocreham is going to be a real star. We are not going to get into an argument with the boss of the Braves as he is being paid to know ball players. He also has a pretty good reputation in this business, as "Johnny" McGraw, Connie Mack and a few other intelligent gentlemen will tell you if you take the trouble to drop them a letter and enclose a stamped envelope.

Stallings says that Cocreham has a fine assortment of benders and that he will dazzle the "fans" by his work when he masters a few more of the fine points of the gentle art of pitching. He is being taught how to stride them across the plate with all the fixings when men are on bases.

Most young pitchers, Cocreham not being an exception to the general rule, allow the base runners to get a big lead off the bag with the result that the honorable athlete does not experience much trouble in parading to the next station.

Magee's Shoulder Is Still Troubling Him.

When the recruits hold the runners close to the bags, they usually sacrifice their curves and other choice back-breakers. The result is that the noble batter is able to smash out a long healthy blow, which helps his team's chances in the little old national pastime. Bill James was troubled with this fault when he first joined the Braves, but Stallings, aided by Fred Mitchell, have corrected him of it.

Returning to the lean and lengthy Mr. Cocreham, it would be well to state that he labored for a couple of rounds and covered himself with big bunches of the well-known glory. True, a young college gentleman, who, undoubtedly, was not brought up properly, busted out a home run, but Cocreham will tell you that he merely desired to give "Herb" Moran some running practice out in right field.

Sherwood Magee, the Philadelphia fence buster, is still troubled with his right shoulder, which he injured last week.

The shoulder is swollen and inflamed but the honorable Mr. Magee refuses to remain on the sidelines while his mates are enjoying themselves by lambasting the Mercer ball team.

Magee and Connolly Smash Out Home Runs.

Magee is out in centre field each day. He fields his position perfectly but does not attempt any long throws on account of his injured shoulder. The new owner to the Braves' camp is fast regaining his batting eye and startled the natives in yesterday's tussle when he lifted the horsehide over the left-field fence for a clean home run.

In speaking about home-run smashes, Joe Connolly deserves honorable mention as he struck his stride yesterday and pushed the ball over the right-field fence for a trip around the circuit.

We must also say a few kind words about Ted Cather. He relieved Magee in centre field late in the tussle and contributed the feature fielding stunt of the day when he ran to deep centre field and made a spectacular catch of a long, high drive which was labeled for extra bases.

The Marnaville to Evers to Schmidt combination also got working to the queen's taste and pulled off its first double play of the season. Evers is troubled with a lame arm but he expects that it will be all right after he has had a few more days of practice.

'HAPPY' TELLS OF RED SOX ROOTERS

By HAPPY.

HAPPY.

HOT SPRINGS, March 13.—I told you yesterday about my come back at Dutch Leonard. He kidded me because I wouldn't hike across the mountains with the bunch the second day; and he went along and got a sore foot out of it. He still had a limp today.

But say, my come back wasn't a mark to what Heinie Wagner is pulling off. We're all rooting for him; and it looks as though the old boy would be there with the berries.

There's quite a bunch of Royal Rooters here, you know. Mr. Lannin and Flannigan and Burns and Pettit and Joe Driscoll and Brownie and George Murray and Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Carrigan and Mrs. Flannigan, and there's always a delegation of Hot Springs rooters in the bleachers.

ROOTERS' BATTLE CRY.

Well, we've been boosting Heinie to beat the band. He's been on the job at shortstop, scooping them up in the old style. It was his wing that bothered him; but he's pegging them across to first now as good as anybody. Dutch Leonard was playing first base; and Heinie surely did sting him a few. If the wing holds out as good as it is now, you'll see Wagner on the job or I'm a lemon.

Us Rooters have got a battle cry. Whenever anyone pulls off something pretty nifty, we sing out: "Remember 1912, old scout. We want another one." And you ought to see the boys go after them.

Heinie says his arm is feeling better than he expected. He sure has got the old "pep."

I was talking to Forrest Cady yesterday. He's been working behind the bat right along except when he's breaking fences. Cady says to him:

CADY LOOKS PRIME.

"You're there with the wallop, Cady, old boy."

"Leave it to me, Happy," he says. "If I don't go in there and bat for about .700, I'm a liar."

On the level, I've got a hunch Cady will clout them for over .300 this season. He looks prime.

The boss is in a hurry now for the rest of the squad to get here. He's got most of the boys here now limbered up, and when the bunch blows in in two or three days, there'll be big doings.

I'll keep you posted.

Willcox Is Most Sought Athlete in All Harvard

Westmore Willcox, Harvard's speedy all-around athlete, is soon to be an active bone of contention at Cambridge. Willcox's speed saved Harvard from being defeated in football by Penn State last season and he was the fastest 440 man on last season's freshman track squad.

Pooch Donovan, accordingly, is trying with might and main to annex the Southerner to his coterie of running stars. "Dog" Sexton, the baseball coach, on the other hand, has designs on Willcox also, and at present is teaching him the fine points of pitching.

Hoblitzell Joins Red Sox

First Sacker in Good Shape

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

A. H. C. Mitchell.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 12.—"Germany Schaefer," who has been fooling around first base while the Red Sox were at practice, had to give up the jag today. Dr. Richard Hoblitzell, the regular first baseman of the next champs, appeared on the scene in uniform and claimed his own.

The doctor got in yesterday afternoon with his wife. He was not due to report for practice until next Monday, but he just simply could not stay away any longer. So he packed up and came along from his home in Cincinnati. He looks in fine shape, with very little, if any, extra weight to take off. He played with the barnstormers, who toured the Pacific Coast and Honolulu last Winter, and has not been off the ball field any great length of time.

Everybody Has Reported in Good Shape So Far.

It is really surprising in what good shape the boys have reported this Spring. Not a man, except possibly Carrigan, has much to take off in the way of superfluous flesh. Uncle Bill always seems to carry quite a bit of excess baggage. He is going through the training stunts with an extra shirt and otherwise trying his best to take off weight. But as a matter of fact Bill never looked better in his life than he does this season.

The pitchers are now beginning to put some steam on. Fortunately no sore arms have developed. Of course, "Doc" Green, the trainer, is kept busy just the same. In the old days ball players never got a rubdown, but the lushiest kind of a bush leaguer demands his regular rub nowadays.

The catchers, too, are beginning to whip the ball down to second in style. Thomas was cutting them loose today, while Cady, Haley and Carrigan were not far behind in the matter of speed.

The arrival of Hoblitzell nearly rounded out a good infield. Joe Wood has shoved "Policy Bill" Sweeney over to second, while the "Smokey One" is covering third in practice. Joe is one of the most natural ball players that ever stepped on a diamond. But Carrigan shivers in his shoes every time a ball is hit hard down to Wood, for fear he will break a finger or something.

"Smokey Joe" got up quite a bit of speed today in pitching to Carrigan. It looks as though the premier pitcher of 1912 would come back for the season of 1915. For two years Joe has practically been of no use to the Red Sox. In the meantime he has drawn down a fat salary. He is anxious to give the club some of his old-time effectiveness this year in order to make up for the time he was not able to work on account of broken bones and the operation for appendicitis he underwent in the Winter of 1914.

Pitchers Demand Their Whack at the Ball.

Carrigan now allows the boys to "fill her out" in batting practice. This is greatly relished by the players. There is nothing connected with the game that they enjoy more than batting. Even the pitchers that are not supposed to be of much use with the stick get up a bowl if they are not allowed their regular turn at bat in the practice.

With practically only pitchers and catchers here, these batters men are making the most of the batting practice because they know when the second squad, the Speakers, the Lewises and the Gardners arrive they will get little chance with the stick.

Hoblitzell was royally welcomed by the War Correspondents, who hope that he may be able to start something worth writing about. Said correspondents figure pitchers and catchers as freaks, not ball players. All the battery men think of is their arms. It must be confessed that it has been very hard picking thus far from a newspaperman's point of view.

Mr. Ward Tells His Own Story of a New Process for Making Better Bread

About four years ago the Ward Baking Company engaged three trained men and instructed them to devote their time in research for a method of making Better Bread. This resulted in the greatest discovery ever made in the history of the Bread business, and is a great boon for the benefit of humanity.

In view of the inaccurate, misleading and really absurd newspaper statements that have been made regarding the methods employed by our Company, we wish first to state a fact within the knowledge of every housewife, that yeast is a living organism, and in order to live and multiply, and thereby leaven the dough, the yeast must have food. In the old process this food was the flour, sugar and other constituents of the dough. The yeast consumed a certain portion of these materials and converted them into alcohol and other products, and a gas known as carbon dioxide, which raised the bread and made it light. Under the new discovery very minute amounts of certain salts are added which serve in place of a part of this food which under the old method the yeast consumes. In the old process a portion of the flour, particularly the glutenous part, was broken down by the yeast, and thus valuable nutritive properties were lost. By the new process this does not take place, but, on the contrary, a greater percentage of the natural gluten of the wheat is retained in the baked loaf.

In order that exact minute quantities might be properly introduced first into the water and then into the dough, these salts were made up into a yeast powder known first as "A. B. C. Powder," and then later under the trade-mark name of "Arkady." Of this Arkady Yeast Powder a very minute amount is added to the sixteen hundred pounds of material—wheat flour, sugar, milk, vegetable oil, yeast, salt and water—which constitutes a standard size dough in our bakeries. The result is that there is left in the Bread four one-hundredths of one per cent. of calcium salts, which are the identical salts which are contained in all natural waters and practically all vegetable and animal products.

On a percentage basis fresh milk contains more than four times as much of these calcium salts as is contained in Ward's Bread, or, in other words, one glass of milk contains as much of these salts as two loaves of Ward's Bread. Cheese contains about thirty times as much as Ward's Bread. Peas contain about three times as much as the Bread; Greens, twelve times as much; Beans, five times as much; Chocolate, three times as much; Turnips, twice as much.

All drinking waters contain calcium sulphate varying in quantity in the waters from the different sections of the country, ranging from those which are considered soft waters to those which are considered hard waters. In many natural waters one glass would contain twenty times as much calcium sulphate as is contained in a single slice of Ward's Bread, and, in fact, many waters contain an amount of this salt, such that one glass contains more than a whole loaf of Ward's Bread.

Medical men have shown that a normal adult man drinks in twenty-four hours three and one-half quarts of water. A twenty-four hours' supply of many natural waters would contain as much calcium sulphate as is found in ten loaves of Ward's Bread.

The above citations are sufficient to show that the salts are present in such small amounts that no question can arise in any one's mind not antagonistic to the real facts that they are not used for any purposes of adulteration or deception.

In the leavening of bread the yeast, besides forming the gas, carbon dioxide, which makes the bread light, also forms alcohol and certain by-products which in the similar process of fermentation of grains to form whiskey we call "Fusel Oil." This fusel oil is a very poisonous and rather disagreeable smelling oil. This action takes place whenever bread is raised by yeast, whether in the household or in the bakery. The amount of fusel oil and certain other disagreeable acid products thus formed is very small, but has its effect on the flavor and odor of the bread, and certainly does not make the bread any more wholesome. In the new process as developed by the Ward Bakery, the amount of these fusel oil products is diminished almost to the vanishing point. The result is a bread with better taste, odor, color, texture and flavor, and a more wholesome bread because of the absence in this process of these small amounts of objectionable products.

From the above citations regarding the natural occurrence of these salts, it would be evident to everyone that they are perfectly harmless, as they are present as natural constituents of so many foods that are daily consumed by the people. In fact, we might go further in this, as the concensus of opinion among the best medical authorities is that people do not at the present time obtain in their food sufficient calcium salts which are so necessary for the formation of bones, teeth and other tissue, especially to growing children. Physiologists tell us that an adult man should have in his food one and one-half grams of lime as lime salts per day. To obtain this amount from bread alone he would have to eat seven loaves of Ward's Bread, while one quart of milk would furnish more than the required amount.

It has been a common practice in the purification of water supplies for cities to add to the water small amounts of calcium hypochlorite. This practice is heartily endorsed by all public health and medical authorities. The percentage of added lime put in in this way is in practically all cases much greater than the amount of added lime salts in Ward's Bread.

Another common method of leavening breadstuffs, such as biscuits, hot cakes, muffins, etc., is by means of baking powder. Baking Powders very commonly contain some of these same salts which are used in minute amounts as yeast food in this new bread process.

The amount of these salts left in a breadstuff made with such baking powder after baking is in many cases a hundred times as much as that which will be found in Ward's Bread.

To sum up, it may be stated that the new process has made it possible for us to produce a bread not only better in texture, odor, flavor and color, but a bread which is more wholesome and more healthful than it has been possible to produce under any of the older processes.

During the development of this process the Agricultural Department at Washington was made acquainted with it, and officials of the Department expressed their approval, and as a result of the work patents have been allowed in the United States and are pending in the principal foreign countries.

We know that Ward's Bread as made today is the Best Bread in the World; Better Bread than you can make in your own kitchen, and Better Bread than you can buy, except under the name "Ward."

Our Company has done more for the baking trade in advancing modern ideas in baking and the erection of sanitary sunlighted plants than any other concern in the trade, and this fact can be demonstrated to the entire satisfaction of any interested person who may visit our Bakery and see the clean, up-to-date and commendable methods employed. The lid is off, we have nothing to hide, never have had anything to hide, and you may feel secure in the use of Ward's Bread and know that when you buy it you will use the best obtainable. No better or cheaper food exists. Feed it to your children in generous portions—it is good for them.

BUY NOW PLAN BOOMS BUSINESS

"Buy It Now booms business" claims President Stern of the Summerfield Company, Washington street.

This firm made an experiment with the Buy-It-Now plan a few weeks ago with gratifying success. They will try it again with other attractions next week.

"Just as soon as this plan was made public by the AMERICAN, I was trying something like it in my own business," continued President Stern.

"It's about the best way to keep matters moving that I know of. We are going to have a Buy-It-Now sale soon, and will show a practical demonstration of this plan.

"Keep things moving. You can't keep them moving unless you are up to something new every day. You must keep people interested in what you have to sell. These different Buy-It-Now sales that we have carried on and will carry on for a month or so more, will prove all that I am saying.

"Business has been better the past month. We cannot complain. But we have all to work together. All who I have talked with value Buy It Now as great boomer. But you must put it to the test."

Plan to Form Auto Dealers' Association

Representatives from the different automobile organizations throughout New England were present yesterday afternoon, at the Copley-Plaza, when plans were made to organize the New England Automobile Dealers Association. President John H. McAlman of the Boston Automobile Dealers Association presided, and there was a large attendance from among the trade throughout New England.

The result of organization among the dealers in Brooklyn, and the benefits derived therefrom were described, in an interesting talk, by John D. Snyder, president of the Long Island Association.

J. H. Johnson described the manner in which a committee from Boston prevented the tax proposed for motor cars, in connection with the deficiency bill which was recently passed by Congress. That the dealers association was responsible for the reduction of the insurance rates, was pointed out by J. W. Howman.

Manager Chester I. Campbell of the motor show, in his speech, described the beneficial result of organization in Boston.

At the suggestion of Mr. McAlman, it was voted that steps be taken to form a permanent organization, and a meeting will be held shortly at which delegates from various associations would be present to elect officers and draw up a set of by-laws for the new organization.

Fletcher Thanks Wilson.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Admiral Fletcher has wired his thanks to President Wilson for designating him as the first admiral of the Atlantic battleship fleet.

OUCH! BACKACHE! RUB LUMBAGO OR STIFFNESS AWAY

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right on your aching back, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the pain right out and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica, backache or rheumatism so promptly. It never disappoints. For sale by Riker-Jaynes and all good druggists.—Advertisement.

A. SHUMAN FAVORS 'BUY IT NOW' PLAN

A. Shuman, one of the foremost merchants of Boston, believes that the "Buy It Now" movement will be of great value in lifting trade out of depression. Mr. Shuman's views on the matter relating to business have weight in commercial and banking circles. In both he is regarded as having rare insight into mercantile affairs. He is also one of Boston's most philanthropic citizens. All who are acquainted with his long connection with the Boston City Hospital and its rise to a foremost rank among the world's institutions of its class, realize how deep is his concern for the welfare of the people.

Financiers and captains of industry in all parts of this country have expressed the belief that fundamentals warrant a business boom in the United States, but that it is retarded by a disposition on the part of the purchasing public to cling to cash and delay buying what under normal conditions they would not think of going without for a day. It is believed that if all who have need of anything and the money to pay for it will "Buy It Now" then will obtain bargains, that business will immediately revive, that there will be work for the unemployed, and prosperity for all.

"The depression into which this country was plunged by the suddenness of the great European war, and the consequent stagnation of business, is passing away," said Mr. Shuman to a Boston AMERICAN reporter, "and all indications point to a healthy increase and a steady advance in every direction.

"We are getting accustomed," he continued, "to the conditions as they now exist, and are looking forward to better times, which are sure to come when confidence is once more restored. There is no doubt but that prices are lower than they will be in the near future, so there can be no mistake in buying now.

"Every dollar spent now for things which the purchaser needs, or may need later, not only benefits him in obtaining the lowest prices, but stimulates business, and will help in a large measure to solve the problem of the unemployed by giving employment to many who are in need of it.

"Everybody must realize that Germany has declared a war zone against England and France, and that the allies are virtually endeavoring to maintain a blockade against Germany and Austria, which will make commodities scarce and prices higher.

"BUY NOW, therefore, is a shibboleth for all who wish to economize in their expenditures."

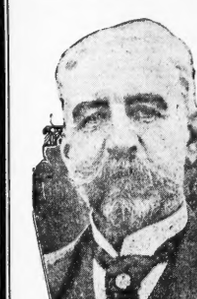
the most important article since the war began

EXCLUSIVELY

for Sunday's

BOSTON AMERICAN



General Count von Bernhardi.

Gen. Von Bernhardi is commander of cavalry at Posen and is author of many books that have created world-wide sensations.

The English speak of him as "The Man who Made the European War."

This is the first article he has written since the war began and will be awaited with consuming interest by everyone—Remember

Exclusively in Next SUNDAY'S AMERICAN

Another feature of notable interest will be a remarkable article written by

Prof. Guglielmo Ferrero

This noted historian claims in this great war series (printed exclusively in this newspaper) that

"All Europe will be an Armed Camp if Germany Wins."

Both of these articles will be very interesting, as both sides of the mighty conflict will be ably discussed by men whose opinions carry great weight.

Here Are a Few Very Good Reasons for Joining the "Buy It Now" Movement

The Merchants Can Sell Cheap Because They Can Buy Cheap. The Purchaser Gets the Benefit and Makes Money by Saving It

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

There are times during the year when the manufacturer has nothing to do—when unless he made up goods at little or no profit he would be obliged to discharge his working force.

To do this would mean to lose many valuable and experienced men—men who could not easily be replaced.

Rather than turn off his people and shut down his mill he is willing to fill orders at greatly reduced prices. Merchants take advantage of such conditions and order big bills of goods, which are disposed of at sales, the prices being reduced to the customer in proportion to the reduction made by the manufacturer.

Owing to the temporary paralysis due to the war many manufacturers followed this practice. Goods were turned out at the actual cost of production. Merchants took them at these prices and sold them cheaply. Customers who had the foresight to buy immediately made big savings. The Buy It Now Movement thus had its beginnings.

Today there are many factories which are prepared to continue turning out their goods at the cost of production, or at very little more than the cost of production. There are others which will start work as soon as there is any indication of a demand, contenting themselves in the beginning with very small profits.

And the man or woman who buys now will reap the benefit of an unusual business situation.

All the conditions which make sales possible in the great stores exist at the present time.

Manufacturers who had begun work on big orders at the outbreak of the war have had these orders cancelled.

They have the plants, the men, the raw materials. They are naturally eager to continue work. To stop means a serious loss.

The prices at which they will turn out their wares will enable people to make purchases they could not afford to make last year, and which they will surely not be able to afford a year or six months from now.

Many merchants have still large stocks on hand of goods ordered before the beginning of last Summer's depression, goods which are not affected by changing styles, and which they can afford to dispose of at very low prices in order to make room for new goods—which, incidentally, will bring much better prices.

It will be worth the while of any purchaser to go to the stores and to inspect the stocks of goods that are there, and to talk with the dealers about prices.

A few months from now it will be too late to make the savings that can be made today.

Already the advanced price of wheat has brought great and unprecedented prosperity to the West.

When farmers prosper the whole country prospers, for all wealth comes from the soil.

Western manufactories are running on full time. Wednesday the great Carnegie plants in western Pennsylvania were opened to their fullest capacity.

The problem of unemployment is rapidly being solved in the West.

It will be solved in the East before the beginning of Summer.

In good times prices are high. The prices of luxuries rise very rapidly. Pianos, automobiles, expensive articles of furniture, all the things that are of real benefit to humanity in bringing happiness, become suddenly expensive.

Today these things and many other things are cheaper than they have been for years and far cheaper than they will be for years to come.

There are still many factories idle. There are still many men out of employment.

BUY IT NOW, and you will soon put to work all these idle men, set all the wheels of industry to turning, and install an era of real prosperity such as this country has never known.

The Father and His Boy

By Mrs. Frank Learned

COMRADESHIP and true friendship should exist between a father and his boy. Unless a child grows into boyhood with the feeling that his father is his friend as well as his guardian and protector there will be a loss of influence.

More than that, there will be danger for the son. A father's enduring power is in the love that exists between his boy and himself and the respect that the boy has for him. The less a boy fears his father, the more he finds in him a comrade and companion in everything, the greater will be his respect, provided always that the father knows how to maintain that respect.

Naturally, a boy believes in his father, and that he is a little wiser, a little better than others. He likes to quote his father to other boys and to say: "My father says so, and it must be true." His father is to him almost an ideal of manhood.

Although the boy looks to him for guidance and depends on his wisdom, it is a mistake for a parent to assume the attitude of being an infallible person. Let him be honest with himself and not assume artificial dignity, and never pretend to possess characteristics which are not his own. He may feel that the trust and confidence which his boy gives him should be an incentive to the noblest efforts in example and advice, the most determined efforts to win characteristics which are worthy, and to correct in himself faults which he would not like to see reproduced in his son.

Boys are quick to detect inconsistency. Nothing creates distrust and lack of respect more than inconsistent conduct. The father who has moods, sometimes scolding, even punishing, sometimes indulging a boy beyond all common sense, cannot expect to lead his boy to reasonable happy boyhood. Scolding never does any good. It is an irritation, an annoyance.

Bodily punishment is absolutely wrong. It is lowering to a man's own nature to inflict corporal punishment on his child; it makes him ashamed, or it hardens his conscience. As for the boy, he goes his way with anger, resentment or hatred in his heart. Corporal punishment is barbarous, and is the resource of the savage and not the wisdom of the reasonable, loving father.

Helpful and constant companionship and honest counsel from his father ought to keep a boy out of trouble, and prove far better than any sort of punishment for getting into it. If a boy has done wrong he should be met with patience, kindness, but firmness. It takes time to talk things over, to reason with a boy, to persuade him to see the right. It is only by patient, intelligent affection that a father can develop in his boy the strong, fine, hardy qualities of manliness. To understand his boy he must study him. The study is well worth while.

"Who would be a comrade with his children must first be just with them," said a sensible father. Truly he must treat them as individuals, respecting their rights, seeing things from their standpoint. They have the right to be understood.

CITY BOYS

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

THEY are growing all about us, boys of none or various creeds,
And the city curves around them like a garden choked with weeds.
Scheming manhood seems to beckon more than all their childhood pleads.

Childhood? What a twisted childhood, spent on noisy asphalt streets!
Childhood far from flashing brooklets and their willowy retreats;
Childhood that is never childhood, robbed of Nature's choicest sweets.

Could I have my childhood over, with its tears and all its joy,
With its dreams and golden sunshine, when I thought the world a toy,
I believe that I would give it to a little city boy.

How his weary eyes would open with a new and great surprise,
Where the green hills of New Hampshire try to kiss the Summer skies!
There, and not in any city, dwell all childhood's mysteries.

They are moving all about us at their cramped and silent play,
Always looking for a playground, yet forever in the way,
Maybe they will find their childhood just beyond the Greater Day.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox Calls Love Sun of Life; Friendship Bright Star

Best of All Friends Is He Who Shows You How to Use Your Own Powers and Build Up Yourself, She Says

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

LOVE stands alone in the solar system of the affections like the sun, unmated and incomparable. From it all other emotions derive their worth, yet they must not expect to imitate its light, warmth or power.

Our friendships are the stars next in magnitude to the orb of light. There can be but one true love, as there is but one sun visible to the earth. But there may be as many orders of friendship as there are varieties of stars in the firmament, though few, to be sure, of the first magnitude.

A great nature can enjoy and be loyal to a great number of friends. It is time to do away with that old idea, grounded in human selfishness, that a man should have but one friend. Study the persons who are fond of proclaiming, "I care but for few people," and you will find them at the core selfish, narrow and unsympathetic. The broad-gauged and noble-hearted man goes out spontaneously to his fellow beings and gives affection and loyalty to many. He attracts as many true friends as his varied characteristics render him capable of enjoying.

You appeal to his intellect and are a mental comrade. In the association he grows fond of you and interested in your personal life, but you cannot expect him to shut out from his heart another who amuses and entertains him with a flow of cheerful spirits which you lack. You show no evidence of affection if you are jealous of this other friend. You simply show a narrow-mindedness grounded in self-love. You have your own sphere in that man's life and cannot be crowded by another any more than one star crowds another in the heavens.

A Selfish Love

The moment my friend says to me, "I must be first in your affection, no matter what other claimants for your regard come knocking at your door," I reply:

"My friend, it is yourself you love, not me; the absolute friend asks only for what I choose to give, and confident of his own worth, never doubts his true place in my affections. Were you my true friend you would rejoice to see me enriched by other friends. It is yourself you love, and you desire me to add fuel to the flame which is already consuming you. But I can only bestow what you inspire. Look to it that you inspire the best within me and it will be yours."

With each new friend our capabilities of affection increase.

Love is to the human heart what the Koran is to the Mohammedan, or the Bible to the Christian. There can be but one. But we may have as many choice friends as we have choice books in our library, if our heart wealth is great enough to procure them. I need not appreciate Dickens less because I enjoy Thackeray also. I do no wrong to the prose authors because I revel in the poets. There are moods when the humorist cheers and entertains me, and again I need the philosopher, and all are equally admired and esteemed by me, and there is no one I could spare.

I once heard a person say, "I love my friends so intensely I am jealous of any ray of light that falls upon their paths, save through me." This is not friendship. It is self-worship, self aggrandizement—self to the core. Distrust any act of kindness shown you by such a friend. It is done, not to give you happiness, but to win your gratitude. The real friend never thinks of gratitude, though he would be hurt by your ingratitude. But he would as soon bestow a favor unknown to you, and he rejoices to see you benefited by others, and takes pleasure in anything which helps you no matter how remote it may be from his own interests.

Old Friends Best

Old friends endeared by years of memories are best. Yet I have no right to reproach my old friend if he outgrows me in his tastes and habits, and I have no right to call him changeable if he finds new friends more congenial in these things, and who keep step with him. He may have found me sufficient for him when we both studied simple fractions together, but if he has passed into higher mathematics I have no right to complain if he no longer enjoys slinging the multiplication table to the air of "Yankee Doodle" with me as in our early school days. I had better blame myself for not making at least sufficient progress to appreciate him, even if I can not enter into full sympathy with his higher development. If I am worthy the name of a true "old friend," I will rejoice to see him speed on and up even if our paths of necessity diverge.

Not long ago I heard a thinking woman say that she could forgive the sin of commission in a friend far sooner than a sin of omission. "An unkind act or word may spring from a hasty temper or a mistake of judgment, but the friend who sits still and silent when I need a defender or a mentor commits an unpardonable sin," she said, and said truly.

When I would prefer my friend to be the first to praise me for well doing, I can excuse him for being the last, if he is the first to warn me when I am doing wrong. He is no friend if he sees me drifting toward the rocks and does not tell me so; if he sees me preparing for the battle with a flaw in my armor, and does not point it out to me before the fray begins.

If he has not discovered it until we are in the thick of battle, then the true and wise friend will keep silent, lest the sudden consciousness of my weak point should unnerve me; but he will keep his own eye upon it, and stand ready to come to my assistance if the flaw proves my failure.

I do not want my friend to feed and clothe me, for that would enervate my strength and rob me of my self-reliance. I do not want him to carry my burdens unless he sees my strength failing me. Let him not perform my tasks for me, but rather stimulate me to labor; instead of doing my work let him encourage in me a belief of my own ability. Let him chide me for my idleness, and spur me to achieve results with my own powers.

In Charles Kingsley's delightful little book, the "Water Babies," there is a wonderful weird water-sprite who makes people make themselves; she does not create anything, but she teaches things how to create themselves; this is the office of the true friend—to tell us how to create ourselves and to urge us to action.
